WHAT'S UP?

... IN THE WORLD

Martha Stewart LIVING: In Prison

She is notorious for her housewife etiquette and the multi-million dollar corporation that is named for her. Martha Stewart was a household name. She had it all, but she gave it all away to save a loss on her 4000 shares of ImClone stocks. Ironical. On March 5, 2003 Stewart was convicted of obstructing justice, conspiracy, and lying to investigators she is now possibly facing a maximum sentenced of 20 years in prison.

New Leaders:

In with the new and out with the old was the motto in politics for the 2003/2004 year. Both our long time Prime Minister Jean Cretien and our long time Mayor Mel Lastman have stepped down and paved the way for a relatively fresh start. Replacing our Prime Minister is Paul Martin of the Liberal Party and David Miller is the new Mayor for the Greater Toronto region. Canadians can soundly say that the nation has been passed on into good hands.

The Infamous Janet Jackson Breast Exposure

Before the second-half kickoff of Superbowl 38, Justin Timberlake tore off part of Janet Jackson's top, exposing her breast during the halftime show. This created much controversy and people began to wonder if it was an intentional marketing stunt. Ironically, Soon after, Janet's album drops in stores. Could this have been a clever promotional stunt or an honest mistake?

Jacko the Wacko

Michael Jackson has been in the public eye for decades as the single glove wearing, plastic surgery loving, King of pop. This all changed in 2003/2004 that marked a new image for the famed Michael Jackson as the spend thrift, immature, child-molester. He was arrested on November 25, 2003 for suspicion of child molestation after an infamous documentary by Martin Bashir that had Jackson asking, "Why can't you share your bed?" because "The most loving thing to do is to share your bed with someone."

William Hung The REAL American Idol

William Hung is a 21-year old Civil Engineering student who never dreamed that he would one day have millions of fans and a record deal; especially because he's never had any formal voice training. This American Idol reject won our hearts with his butchering of Ricky Martin's hits "She bangs" and "Shake Your Bon Bon" and is now an inspiration to all of the tone-deaf people in America. He really is "The True Idol".

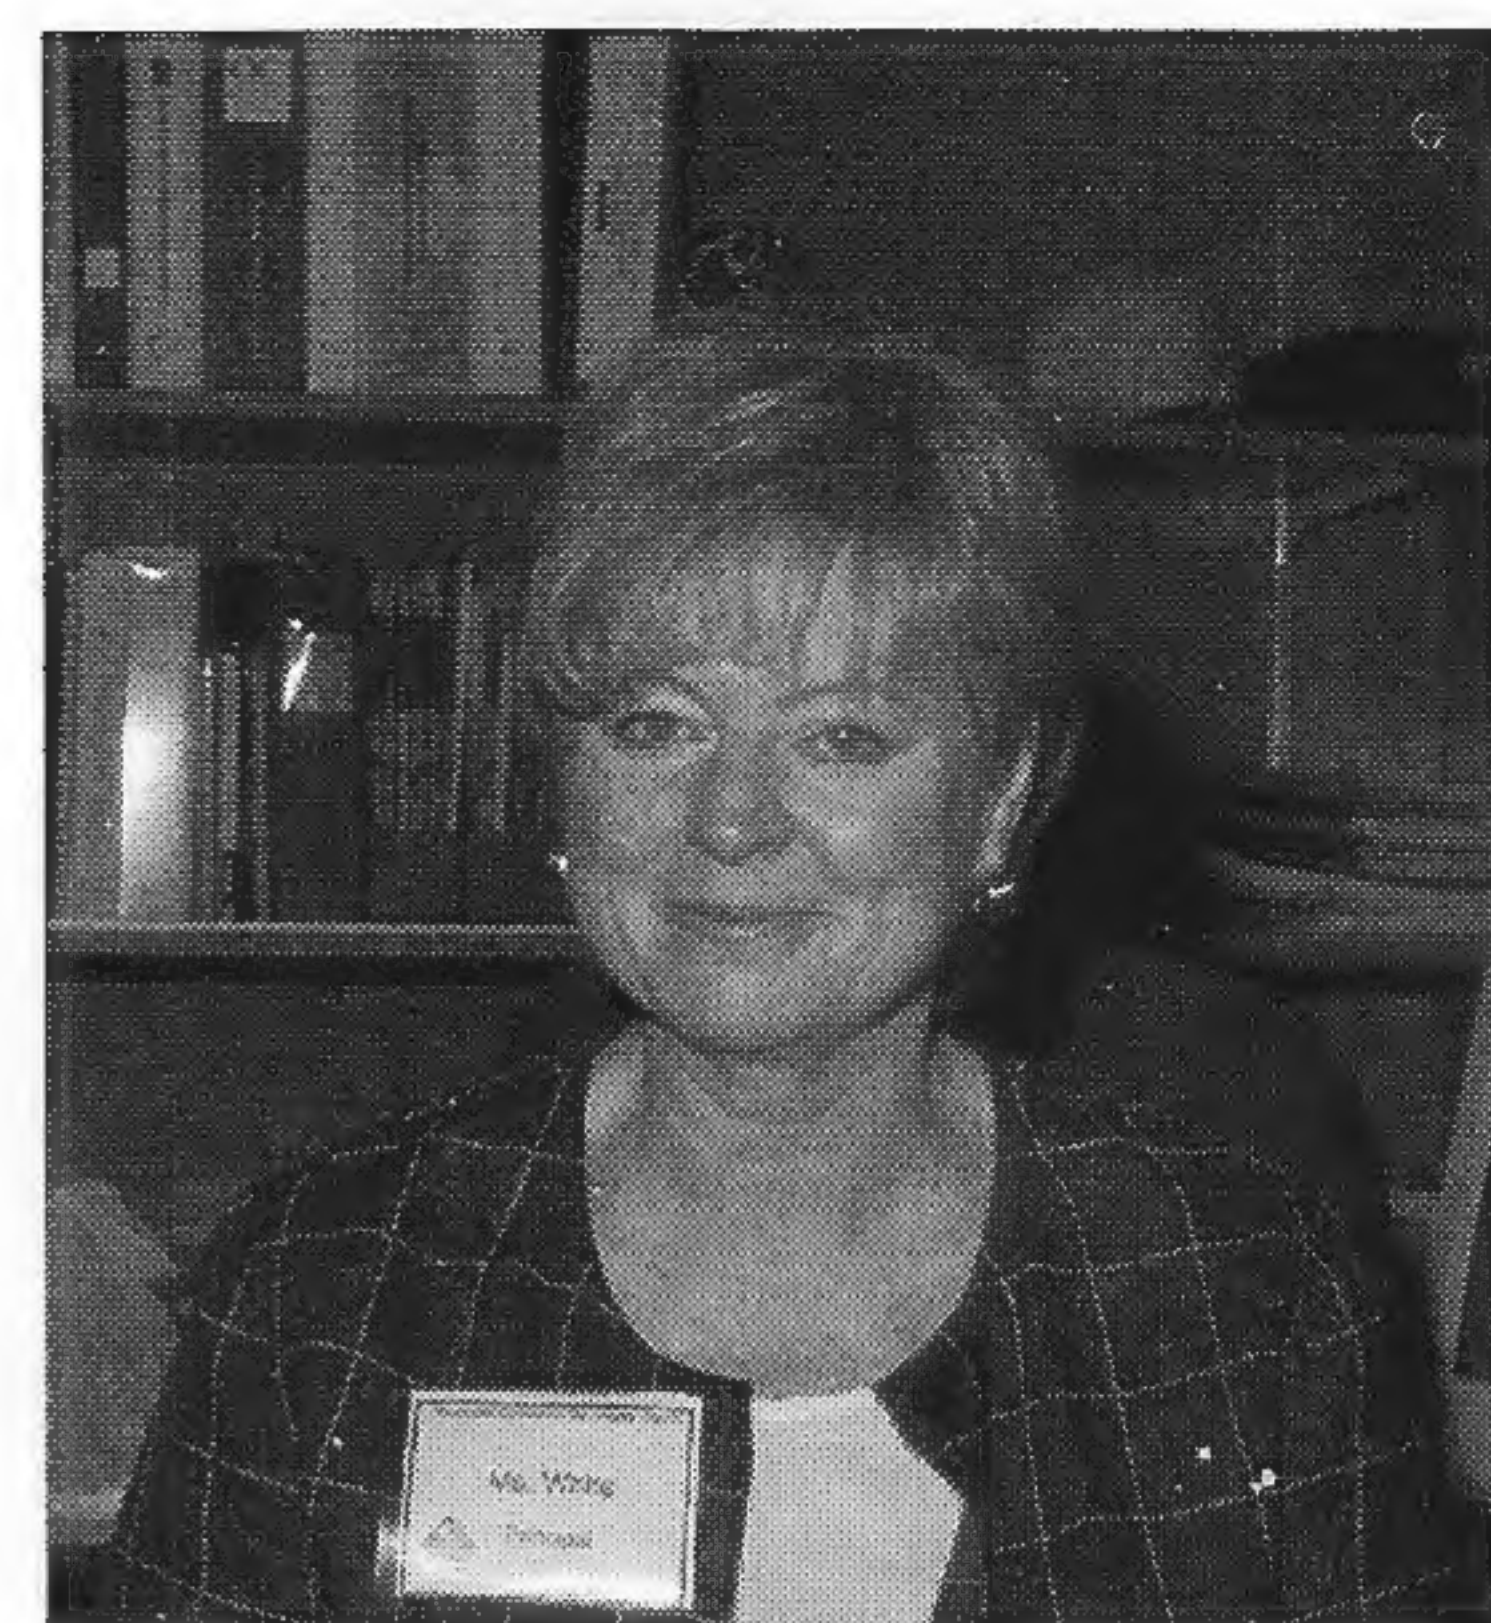

The Break-up of the Century:

For 43 years, Barbie and Ken have been seen as the ideal plastic couple. They were the marketing phenomenon that put Mattel at the top, but it all ended on February 12, 2004. Barbie and Ken broke up. Barbie needed to be single so Ken needed to go. To promote Barbie's newfound "freedom" Mattel is introducing a new line of Barbie dolls, the Cali (California) Girl Barbie. Not to mention that Mattel is also introducing a new character to Barbie's world; Blaine the Australian boogie boarder. It's time to see how Barbie likes the single life.

Message from the Principal

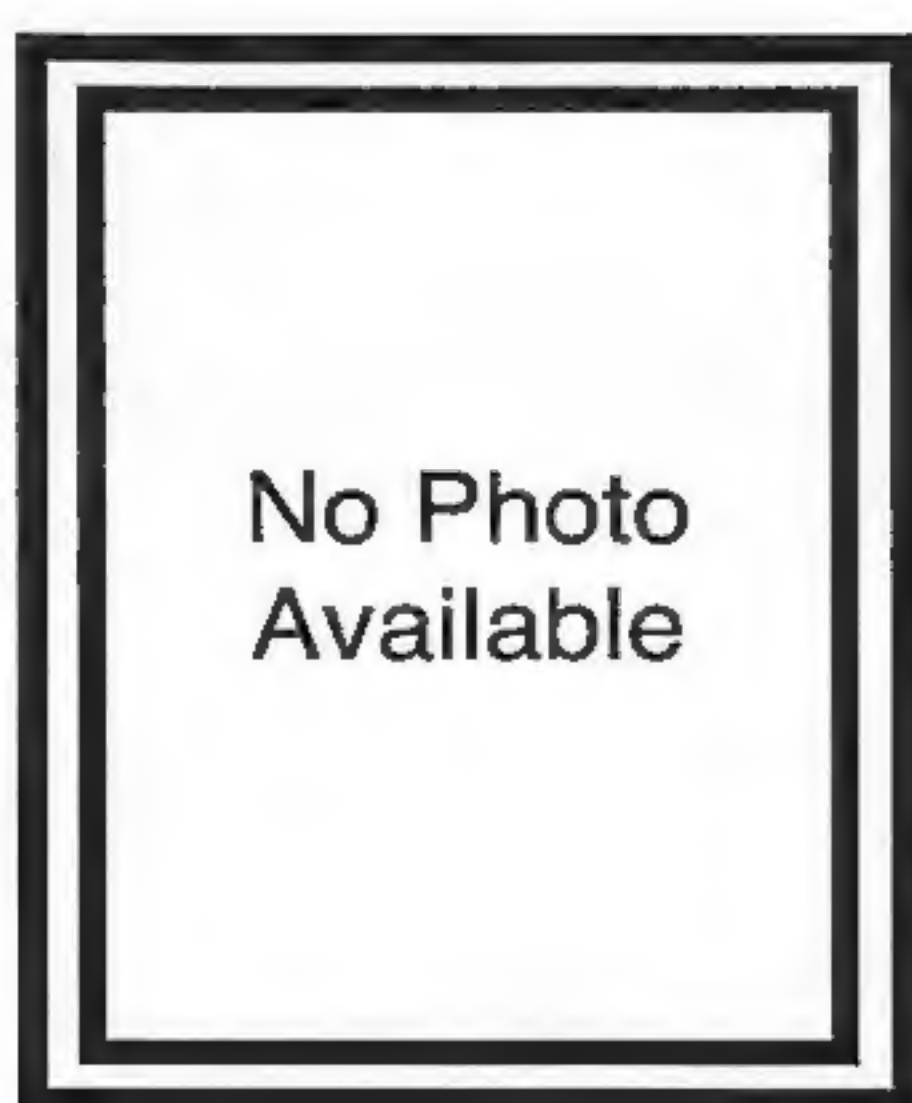

Congratulations to the students who have worked so hard to produce this outstanding yearbook for the school year 2003-2004. A yearbook is a very important part of school life, capturing the faces and activities of our school. It holds memories of the staff, the clubs, the athletics and all the other things that make Westview special. Putting such a book together represents countless hours and I extend my sincere thanks to the editor and staff for the job exceptionally well done. Your enthusiasm, determination and individual effort will be appreciated every time this book is opened.

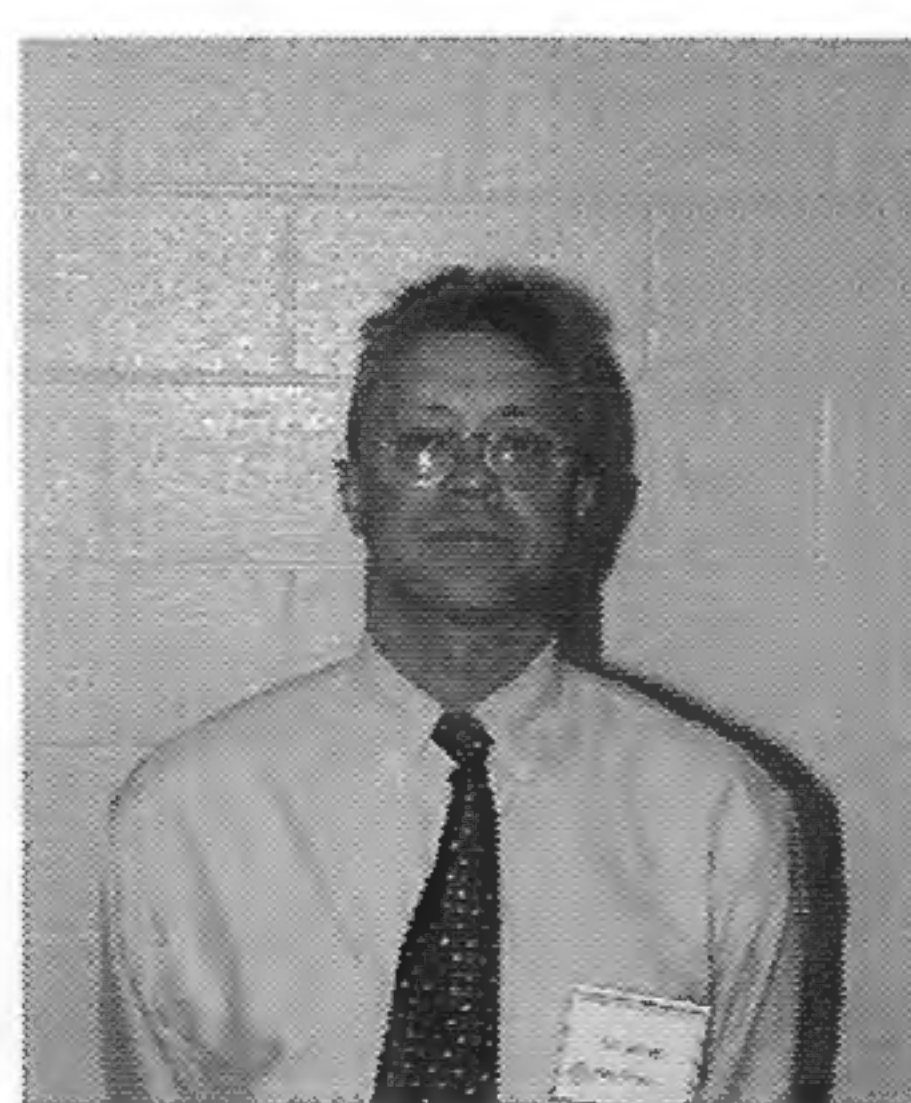

Ms. White

This year has been a rewarding and successful one for Westview staff and students. We have worked hard to improve academic excellence and Westview students continue to win awards and be recognized in athletics, music, artistic and cultural endeavors as well as for service in the community. It is an honour to work with such a fine staff and student body who demonstrate pride in our school and respect for one other.

To the graduates, I express my sincere congratulations and wish you the best of luck in your post-secondary school plans. In the years ahead, as you look at this yearbook, it will be a tangible reminder of the rich years you have spent at Westview. I hope you will take pride in the things you have done, your personal growth and person you have become.

'Alex'

I laid motionless and still; staring at a crack in the ceiling, which grew slowly larger everyday. I felt caged, barred and locked behind metal gates. My mind felt imprisoned and dehydrated. What was the point?

I turned my head and glanced at the clock, watching the yellow stick ticking its way across the top of the circle. Suddenly, a loud, irritating ring sounded as I reached for the counter and knocked the clock to the ground, ending the irritation - that same irritation I felt in the morning when I struggled just for a bit of toothpaste when the tube is emptying, or when I turned on the tap and waited for the running water to warm up. I indifferently sat up and walked to the bathroom. It was the same monotonous, mediocre routine I went through everyday, futile and pointless. Leaving the bathroom, I bent down to pick up the first pair of pants laying on the ground, and a dirty black shirt laying beside it. As I walked down the cobbled corners of the stairway, I put on a pair of shoes, realizing I'd forgotten to wear socks, but what was the point anyway?

I walked past the annoying sounds of grass cutting, kids laughing, parents nagging, and speeding cars – I hated it. Opening the door, it suddenly felt crowded, and I felt immobile, stripped of the isolation I desired more than anything. Hundreds of eyes stared, examining every inch of my body, knowingly, but nevertheless, I was indifferent. That similar irritating ringing bell sounded as I walked to the empty corner area of the room and sat down. As the teacher rambled on, an unexpected knock on the door interrupted him, thankfully. I fidgeted with my pencil, unresponsive and uninterested, as the teacher hesitated and said, "Welcome to the class, why don't you just have a seat by Alex for the time being?" Slowly, I glanced up, and saw a foreign face, wearing a clean white top with gray sweat pants. I felt uncomfortable, that feeling of isolation being dragged away. Intimidated, he stuck out his hand and nervously asked, "I'm Derrick, how's it going?" I momentarily looked up at the hand, and continued fidgeting with my pencil.

I sensed his feeling of rejection, anger and resentment. It was once familiar to me, but not anymore. Now, I sat there indifferent, careless, mediocre and apathetic. Was this the real me? Whatever! I could care less. After what seemed an eternity, and a teacher's endless words of crap, the bell finally rang. As I waited for the classroom to quickly empty, I cracked in half the wooden pencil I had been fidgeting with all class and tossed it in the corner. On my way towards the door, a deep voice spoke out behind me and calmly asked, "Alex, can I have a word with you please?"

"Nope." I replied.

"Excuse me?"

"I said nope."

Just as I was leaving the room, the teacher blurted out a comment that froze me. I was dumbfounded and shocked, but on the other hand, it was humorous. Teachers, they think they understand. They all feel as if they can grasp every bit of understanding of my mind, as if every adolescent was the same. What did he know anyway?

"Running away from what you fear most isn't the answer," he confidently said. I turned around, looked at him with a bitter, blunt stare and waited for him to speak. I couldn't believe I gave him the time at all, although I suppose I was helping him. I would let him talk, satisfy himself as a person, let him feel wise and useful, and let him sleep at night, knowing he did his job. I wasn't going to show any emotion, I wasn't going to speak. And I didn't.

Sonnet: A Teenage Girl's First Crush

A teenage girl's first crush... well, crushing
Her body isn't hers, nor is her mind
She finds herself shivering, shaking
Weak, tormented, sick, and going blind
And why? Because some guy might look her way
Then cast his eyes as quickly to the ground
Some special one, for reasons she can't say
Whose voice makes her feel faint when he's around
But now my crush on you has been returned
And so the two of us stand on some brink
It can't be love so young, and yet we've learned
Love does its will, no matter what we think.

The Swift Messenger

The battle of my kingdom has been waging,
I fear may conclude in the enemy's favour.
As I peer through the curtains of my chamber,
the hope which once sparkled in the villagers' eyes is now rendered dull.
Strewn are the hills of this once lush and beautiful valley with the bodies of brave souls who had split their blood for our freedom.
Mother nature shares our sorrows, as the sweet sound of the sparrows can no longer be heard.

Shhhhh... Shhhh... Shhhhhhh...

A strange sound interrupted my already troubled slumber.
As I made my way to the window,
In an attempt to determine the source of this interruption, I realized it was Mother Nature's swiftest messenger,
the wind sent to tend to my wounds and provide inspiration, to a devastated kingdom.
Gently I whistled and I had soon interpreted its speech:

"Grieved king, thou shall not see thine kingdom plunge into defeat. Thou art brave and must not stray from thine path of victory. Every tear, every thought and every sincere effort issuing from within thine good soul will be rewarded with success."

Mathinthan Thayaparajah

Congratulations to Mahinthan Thayaparajah on reaching the top group of entries in the Young Writers Poetry Writing Contest 2003. This is a great accomplishment, because Young Writers receives thousands of poems and publish only the best of them. Mahinthan's poem will be published in the Young Writers book of verse entitled 'The Loon's Cry'.

I Don't Want Your Love Out of Sympathy

I do not want you love out of sympathy,
I know that I could love but I show no empathy,
No remorse to divorce,
I am on the wrong course,
Getting guidance from the wrong source,
I harness this bitter force,
And turn pain into pleasure,
I do not want your love out of sympathy,
No never,
I turn pain into pleasure,
I will not show my empathy,
No never,
I cry to make sure my spirit is still alive,
I pinch myself before I die,
But there is no reaction,
No feeling of satisfaction,
We once sang the same harmonizing chorus,
But now I am cursed to listen to opposing verses,
For you it's a rebirth,
We are all youthful in this ancient earth,
For me I still dwell in sadness and confusion,
In this illusion Lord God what am I worth,
What more shall you do to me,
Continue to flaunt the precious things that I crave,
But will never have again,
This is my karma for loving sin,
I cry to make sure my spirit is still alive,
My tears run dry and I know why,
They say if you love something let it go and it will come back to you,
But I'm afraid it is not true,
When you're dealing with shallow minded people
that don't have a clue,
Express yourself but to who,
Who can you talk to?
When things change,
Your own brother will point fingers at you,
So I pray God to let his will be done,
But so far it only brings regret,
Regret of not having a visible father that could sit and talk to his loveless son.

"Not that I'm in any position to ask, or judge, but when I sense that there is a negative influence towards a student's academic performance, I feel I'm entitled to some sort of explanation. Alex, I'm honestly worried, and if you care at all, this semester's marks are imperative, crucial, and you need those marks. If you want to talk about anything at all, please talk. I'm here, and everything is confidential."

Typical. The word ran through my head repetitively from the moment he opened his mouth. Teachers were all so typical – it was depressing. I slowly shook my head left and right as I continued to coldly stare at him, turned around and walked out the classroom.

After what seemed the longest day of my life, I was finally free. I was finally released, the handcuffs had been removed, and the bars had swung open. Kids ran to the nearest bus shelter, jumped into cars, or stayed in the building. As I walked down the stair steps outside, the rain splattered across cement, my clothing began to feel heavy, and I continued not to care. Casually walking through a soccer field, I was reminded that I'd forgotten to put on socks. I felt my clothes beginning to stick to my skin, and my shoes slowly letting in the rain that soaked the grass. What was the point in caring anyway?

As I pulled open the screen door, I tranquilly dug into my wet pockets and pulled out my house keys. Shaking open the loose handle, I pushed the old wooden door open, and heard the sound of a breaking broom smash across the wall. Another broom? After taking my shoes off, I casually walked towards the stairway, drenched in water, face dripping with rain.

"How many times have I told you, damn it? 10,12 times? Answer me you worthless kid!" That was my father. It happened just about everyday. My little brother sat on the ground in a curled up ball, waiting for that last brutal whack of the broom from my father. Without a hesitation, I continued to walk up the stairs dragging my drenched clothing, as I heard the screams becoming quieter and quieter the more I walked up. I closed my room door behind me as I walked in, stripping myself to nothing and threw the clothes by the heater. I laid on the bed, still, motionless and frozen, staring at the crack in the ceiling. No one knew what it was like. No one understood. What was the point of people trying?

I saw him from the corner of my eye. He wanted to say something, but hesitated. I hoped he had just kept his mouth shut. "Believe it or not, I can probably relate to you." What was he talking about? Did he actually think he knew what it was like? Did he actually think he knew what I was going through? Totally ignoring his ignorant remark, I dug into my pockets. Taking out a pocketknife, I began carving the orange colouring off the wooden pencil. Quickly, he turned his body towards me. I felt beyond uncomfortable, what was he trying to do? Carry a conversation with me?

"Acting as if you care about nothing isn't going to do anything for you. Everything is still going to be the same. So what's the point?"

As politely as I could put it, I replied, "Could you please not talk to me?"

"What's the point of ignoring me? I'm in all of your classes."

"There is no point. I just don't want to listen to you."

Finally, he gave up. The bell rang; I quickly got up and left the room without turning back. The last few minutes ran through my head over and over. How could he have possibly thought he knew what I was thinking? I opened the door and stepped out the building. That feeling of freedom resurrected every time I stepped out of there. It was something I always longed for. Again and again, Derrick's words ran through my mind. No one's words had ever actually instilled in my mind this way before, or at least not anytime recently. I felt that isolation taken away again, a sense of weakness, yet I felt angry. Anger slowly enveloped me as I continued to walk a bit faster. Walking quickly with my head down, I was startled. I suddenly saw another pair of shoes walking parallel with me. My head swung up.

“What’s the rush Alex?”

I continued to walk faster and faster. How did he find me? I always took a different route home from the rest of the crowd. I suddenly felt swarmed, as if I was in an overcrowded room. I was afraid of what he was going to say next. What was happening? I couldn’t grasp how I was feeling.

“I have a huge feeling we have something in common. Could you just stop ignoring everything and just let yourself be who you are for one damn minute?”

There was no way I was letting him tell me who I was. There was no way I would let him feel as if he knew anything at all. Frustrated, I abruptly stopped and bluntly said, “And what could we possibly have in common?” He slowly walked up to me – what was he doing, I thought. And there he stood; I could vividly see my reflection through his eyes. I felt vulnerable and exposed. But how is this possible? I was supposed to be indifferent, and careless. But I was bewildered and panicky. And here I stood, in front of him, experiencing lucid emotion - something I hadn’t felt for the longest time. Something I intentionally failed to acknowledge and avoid: it plagued my mind. I felt unable to elude it any longer. It got me frustrated, although I was feeling a sense of relief. Why was I relieved?

I felt his hand touch my face, caressing it. He understood me. Swiftly, I felt ready to be myself. He leaned in; I felt intimidated, somewhat fearful. My eyes closed, and I cleared my mind. Slowly, but surely, I felt his lips on mine, and at this moment, I felt safe. All these foreign emotions ran through me, and I felt normal. An indescribable sensation streamed through my body, and I began to shiver. When his lips let go, I looked toward the ground, not knowing what to do. He laid his fingers between mine, and it was all there. I was safe, appreciated, and understood.

I squeaked open the wooden door, stepping in the house. “Again? What the hell is the matter with you?” My father screamed, slashing the black broom across my brother’s face. Quickly, before he could hit him again, I snatched the broom from his hand and flung it across the room. The broom danced in the air before it hit the wall and fell to the ground. He turned to me bewildered and shocked, “Who do you think you are?” I stared at him with hatred, neither intimidated nor fearful. I stood silent, awaiting his response. Unexpectedly, he turned away and walked up the stairs. I looked down at my brother curled up in a ball, with tears dripping down his face.

“It happened to me, and I’m not letting it happen to you.” I offered my hand, and picked him up off the ground. I gave him a hug, assuring his safety. As I turned to grab a tissue, he quietly said, “Thanks, big brother.”

And That’s How The Cookie Crumbles. The End.

Alright, it's official - Ms. Van Gink is going in the Guinness Records for the first teacher to have the ability to TEACH CREATIVITY...or maybe she just has talented students. Regardless, congrats to Miss. Van Gink for a successful first year of photography at Westview!

Fitness

Do you want to look good, feel great and gain your community hours for your diploma all at the same time? All students can exercise at lunch and after school everyday to help develop their physical fitness, strength and endurance. Students from different sports teams can prepare for their upcoming season to give them that needed edge when it comes to competition. This valuable program would not be a success without the committed effort of the twelve teachers who have given their valuable time with their supervision at the center. A great opportunity like this should not be passed up! So put on your workout gear, head over to our fitness center and start seeing and feeling the results!

The junior team finished the regular season with 4 wins and 3 losses. Many of the games were exciting and close. The girls made it to the playoffs, and beat G.S. Henry in the quarter-finals. Unfortunately the girls lost to a tough team from Fleming in the semi-finals. This team showed a lot of heart and enthusiasm for the game throughout the season. With most of the girls on the team being only in grade nine this year, this team will no doubt be strong contender next year.

During the season the senior team beat Emery and A.Y. Jackson, while losing to tough teams like Downsview, Newtonbrook, and C.W. Jefferys. The girls also played in the GTA Tournament in Mississauga, where they played one of their best games of the season in losing cause to a Thunder Bay team by only 10 points. Even though the seniors didn't win the tournament it helped them realize what they needed to work on. These amazing girls showed dedication, teamwork, and determination. While the senior team didn't make the playoffs, they learned how to work as team, and gained valuable experience to take with them into next year's season.

Junior Boys' Basketball

The Junior Basketball team had a very successful season in many ways. During the regular season, the team destroyed arch rival Boylen by 50 points, and easily eliminated cross finch rivals Jeffreys from the playoffs in a do or die game. In the quarter finals, the team upset the number one team from the east, A.Y. Jackson 62-59. Trailing 18-0, stellar defence led by Delane Daley, Jeremy Paul, Odane Brown, Rashaan Robotham, and Matthew Plummer, caused many turnovers. The team never had the lead in the game, yet managed to tie the game in the last minute and won it on a last second buzzer beater by Hussein Nur. In the semi-finals, the team played hard but could not overcome Downsview's team. The team showed a lot of fortitude especially Collins Duah, Lakhs Vig, and Gary Rose. Mr. Kelly and Mr. Silverberg would like to congratulate the players for a good season. Special thanks to Jessica Moreira for acting as the team manager.

Senior Boys' Basketball

Despite a somewhat tumultuous beginning, the team soon started to show their true potential. They won all but one of their league games and managed to get within one game of an opportunity to go to the OFSAA championship, and ended up North York Finalists. While Jodie Wheatle, Dane Reid, Jayson Prince, Gabriel Mills and Johnny Shaboo are expected to graduate this year, they leave behind a core of talent that is certain to make Westview proud.

Westview winning gold

Moveover Kofi, Kwame, Richard

It looks as if the future of Westview soccer is once again reassured. The glory days are back. The gold has returned.

Perry Akenten, Richmond Baah and Hansen Nti are making a run at North York soccer dominance. Remember the times when Westview was dangerously armed with Kofi, Kwame, and Richard? It seems this trio has some sort of familiar resemblance.

This season, the Westview Junior Soccer team came home from the North York Regional Finals with nothing less than the gold medal.

During the game, Perry Akenten sent a message early. Running the ball into the box, he let one go, and it beat the Newtonbrook goaltender. Newtonbrook, who was able to capitalize on a penalty kick opportunity in the first half, finished the half in close grasp of a 2-1 game. However, Westview came out and displayed sheer dominance, scoring another 3 unanswered goals to finish the game. Congrats boys!

At first, it seemed as if Westview Senior soccer was still in complete supremacy of the city. Winning a well fought tournament early in the season up in Barrie, it seemed that the team was unstoppable. However, during the season, Westview was surprisingly not dominate that season, not at all. With what seemed to be an easy win over Downsview at home for a playoff-deciding game, Westview regrettably lost.

During the indoor season, Westview was somewhat successful, bringing home one trophy, and even knocking out Dante in a penalty shootout-deciding game. For now, we await the anticipation of the junior team, and senior team merging to one next season.

With expectations of an unsuccessful season after the first few games, the senior boys' volleyball team finished the regular season with a very respectable record of 5-2. Heading into the playoffs confidently, the Westview boys outplayed George S. Henry in the quarterfinals and made a heart-wrenching come-from-behind victory against McKenzie to put themselves in the North York Finals. In spite of a valiant effort put out by the boys, they ended up with a silver medal in a heartbreaking loss to A.Y. Jackson. Despite only having seven players the entire season, Westview was able to perform at a level even they didn't think was possible.

The improvement in skill regarding the junior boys' volleyball season has been tremendous. With expert coaching, the team had gone from a team with hope, to a team with skill. Although the junior team was not so successful this year on paper, it was evident in their hearts that success was written all over. Giving it their best shots to beat the teams they faced, they were plagued with inexperience. In the end, hopefully next year's senior team will be as talented as this years, as they gained experience from this season.

Senior Girls' Volleyball

Westview's senior girls' volleyball team had a great season this year. It was fun, exciting and most of all, it was a learning experience. Although the season did not go as well as we would have liked it to go, it was still a memorable year. The experience and skills gained and friendships made this season are the successes. "Team Barbie" played six hard fought season games and two tournaments, one of which we made it in the playoffs. It goes to show that if you work hard like our girls did, any season will be successful. Big thanks goes out to Mr. Lorbergs, Ms. Paul and Mateen Khalid for their contributions. Most of all, big thanks and congratulations to "Team Barbie". Hope to see most of you next year!

Junior Girls' Volleyball

At the start of this season, all the girls had one thing on their minds and that was to win the championship. Throughout the season, the girls showed hard work by waking up extra early to attend practices twice a week. During the season, the girls made progress performing on the court. The season ended with a record of 3-5, putting them in 4th place in the division. In the quarter finals, Westview played Newtonbrook in a tough game. After losing to Newtonbrook in the quarter finals, our junior girls learned that there was more to playing volleyball than winning. The junior girls' season was well played, although they didn't achieve their goal, they had a wonderful time this year. Hope to see them all again next year! Special thanks goes out to Ms. Paul and Mr. Lorgergs for their hard work all season and tremendous support towards the team.

After more than ten years without a wrestling team, Westview is back and getting stronger in the Toronto high school Wrestling scene. Thanks to Coach Davis Ravi, an experienced and successful wrestling fanatic, the new team was practicing effectively to conquer their opponents. The team attended two Toronto tournaments and numerous mini matches with other schools. All the team members this year have been male students, however, with the growing general enthusiasm for the sport, we hope to attract at least a few female members for next year.

Great season guys!

This was an exciting year for Westview swimming. We have not had a team here at the school in many years, but this year was different. This year, the team started off with 9 co-ed swimmers ranging from grade 9 to grade 12. We started practicing in October, and our season lasted through to early February. We participated in 3 meets throughout the season, and we even hosted a meet here at Westview. Our team did extremely well at all three meets, with many swimmers setting personal goals for themselves. The Regional Finals were held in February, and our team had four dedicated swimmers participate. Justin Hancock, Lan Phan, Melinda Phommasa, and Devenand Ramsawak represented Westview very well. Justin received a 5th place ribbon for his efforts in the Junior Boys 50 meter Back Crawl, while Devenand earned himself a 4th place ribbon in the Senior Boys 50 meter back crawl. The team would like to thank Natalie Abkarian (our lifeguard) for her dedication and support through-out the season. It was a very long season, but we are very proud of the efforts of our team, and we look forward to competing again next year!

National Basketball Association

Raptors add offensive talent to roster

The Toronto Raptors invest in a huge blockbuster trade that sends Antonio Davis, Jerome Williams and Chris Jeffries to Chicago in return for Jalen Rose, Donyell Marshall, and Lonny Baxter.

Los Angeles makes a run for another title

During the off-season, the Los Angeles Lakers sign free agents Gary Payton and Karl Malone to contracts, completing an All-Star starting roster that includes the Glove and Kobe Bryant in the backcourt, leaving the Mailman and Shaq to dominate the frontcourt.

General Manager Fired

Glen Grunwald, the General Manager of the Toronto Raptors is fired after the Raptors' shockingly unsuccessful season, considering the talent on the roster. A replacement will be found in the off-season.

National Football League

New England, Superbowl Champs

Tom Brady sets up Vinatieri's 41-yard field goal with four seconds left to give the New England Patriots their second NFL championship in three seasons with a 32-29 victory against the Carolina Panthers. Tom Brady at the age of 26, earns his second Superbowl MVP.

National Hockey League

Maple Leaf Acquisitions

During the off-season, the Toronto Maples Leafs acquire Joe NIEUWENDYK. In addition, during the season, the Leafs also get Bryan Leech, Ron Francis, Bryan Marchment. Toronto enters the playoffs with some serious talent.

Tragic Death

The NHL suffers a tragic loss as Atlanta Thrashers prospect Dan Snyder died of injuries suffered in a car crash involving All-Star teammate Dany Heatley. Condolences go out to Dan's family and friends.

Todd Bertuzzi Incident

Vancouver Canucks' Todd Bertuzzi sucker punches Steve Moore of the Colorado Avalanche from behind and shoves his head down, hitting the ice with serious impact. Moore suffered from a broken neck and was in the hospital for two weeks before leaving. Bertuzzi publicly apologizes and the situation is under investigation, possibly leading to criminal charges. Meanwhile, he is suspended for the remainder of the season.

Major League Baseball

2003 World Series

The Florida Marlins capture the 2003 World Series Title, marking the 100th anniversary for World Series.

Athletes of the Year

2002-2003

(no, we didn't forget you!)

Grace Antwi - Senior Girls

A dedicated student athlete, Grace was a member of three school teams: cross country, basketball, and track and field, qualifying for the Metro Championships in cross-country and track (200m).

Her athletic ability has also qualified her for the provincial track championships (OFSAA) on two occasions.

Grace is the Athletic Council President and has spent many hours looking after the concession during special events.

Michael Duong - Senior Boys

A talented young man, Michael started his High school athletic career as Captain of Westview's Midget Boys' Volleyball team and as a member of the Junior VB team in the same year. He earned himself the "Midget Athlete of the Year Award" in grade 9. Michael helped lead his team to North York Junior Volleyball Championship the following year. In addition, he was the Co-Caption of the senior volleyball team this year, leading his team to the T.D.S.S.A.A North Region Championships. Michael was also a member of Westview's Baseball team. Michael's 'Hi-Lite' of his Vb career is in accomplishing a "6 pack" on an opposing player.

Kwame Oduro - Senior Boys

As a Soccer and Basketball team member, Kwame's most memorable moment is going to OFSAA for Soccer (Ottawa), being team captain.

Kwame led the Soccer team during the fall outdoor season in scoring, especially with 3 goals in the North York Finals against Boylen.

Kwame was a two time finals MVP, scored 19 goals in 14 games as a senior and led the North York League in scoring for four years. He also holds the Westview school record with four goals in one half.

As a long time Basketball team member, Kwame's "Hi-Lite" was scoring the winning basket at the George Brown Tournament to win the Consolation Championship.

P.s.: Kwame is currently on a Soccer scholarship at Houghton College, N.Y.

Todaneisha Johnson - Junior Girls

Neisha, a new student to Westview, made a quick impact as an athlete competing in Track and Field. Medals at the North Region Meet and the Metro Meet culminated with a Silver Medal win in the Long Jump, at the OFSAA Track and Field Championships in St. Catharines.

Chris Samdeo - Junior Boys

No Photo
Available

Since his arrival at Westview Chris has been actively engaged in sports, a member of the Basketball team and competing in Track and Field. Chris' accomplishments at the North Region and Metro Meets qualified him to compete at the OFSAA Track and Field Championships.

Sandy Do - Midget Girls

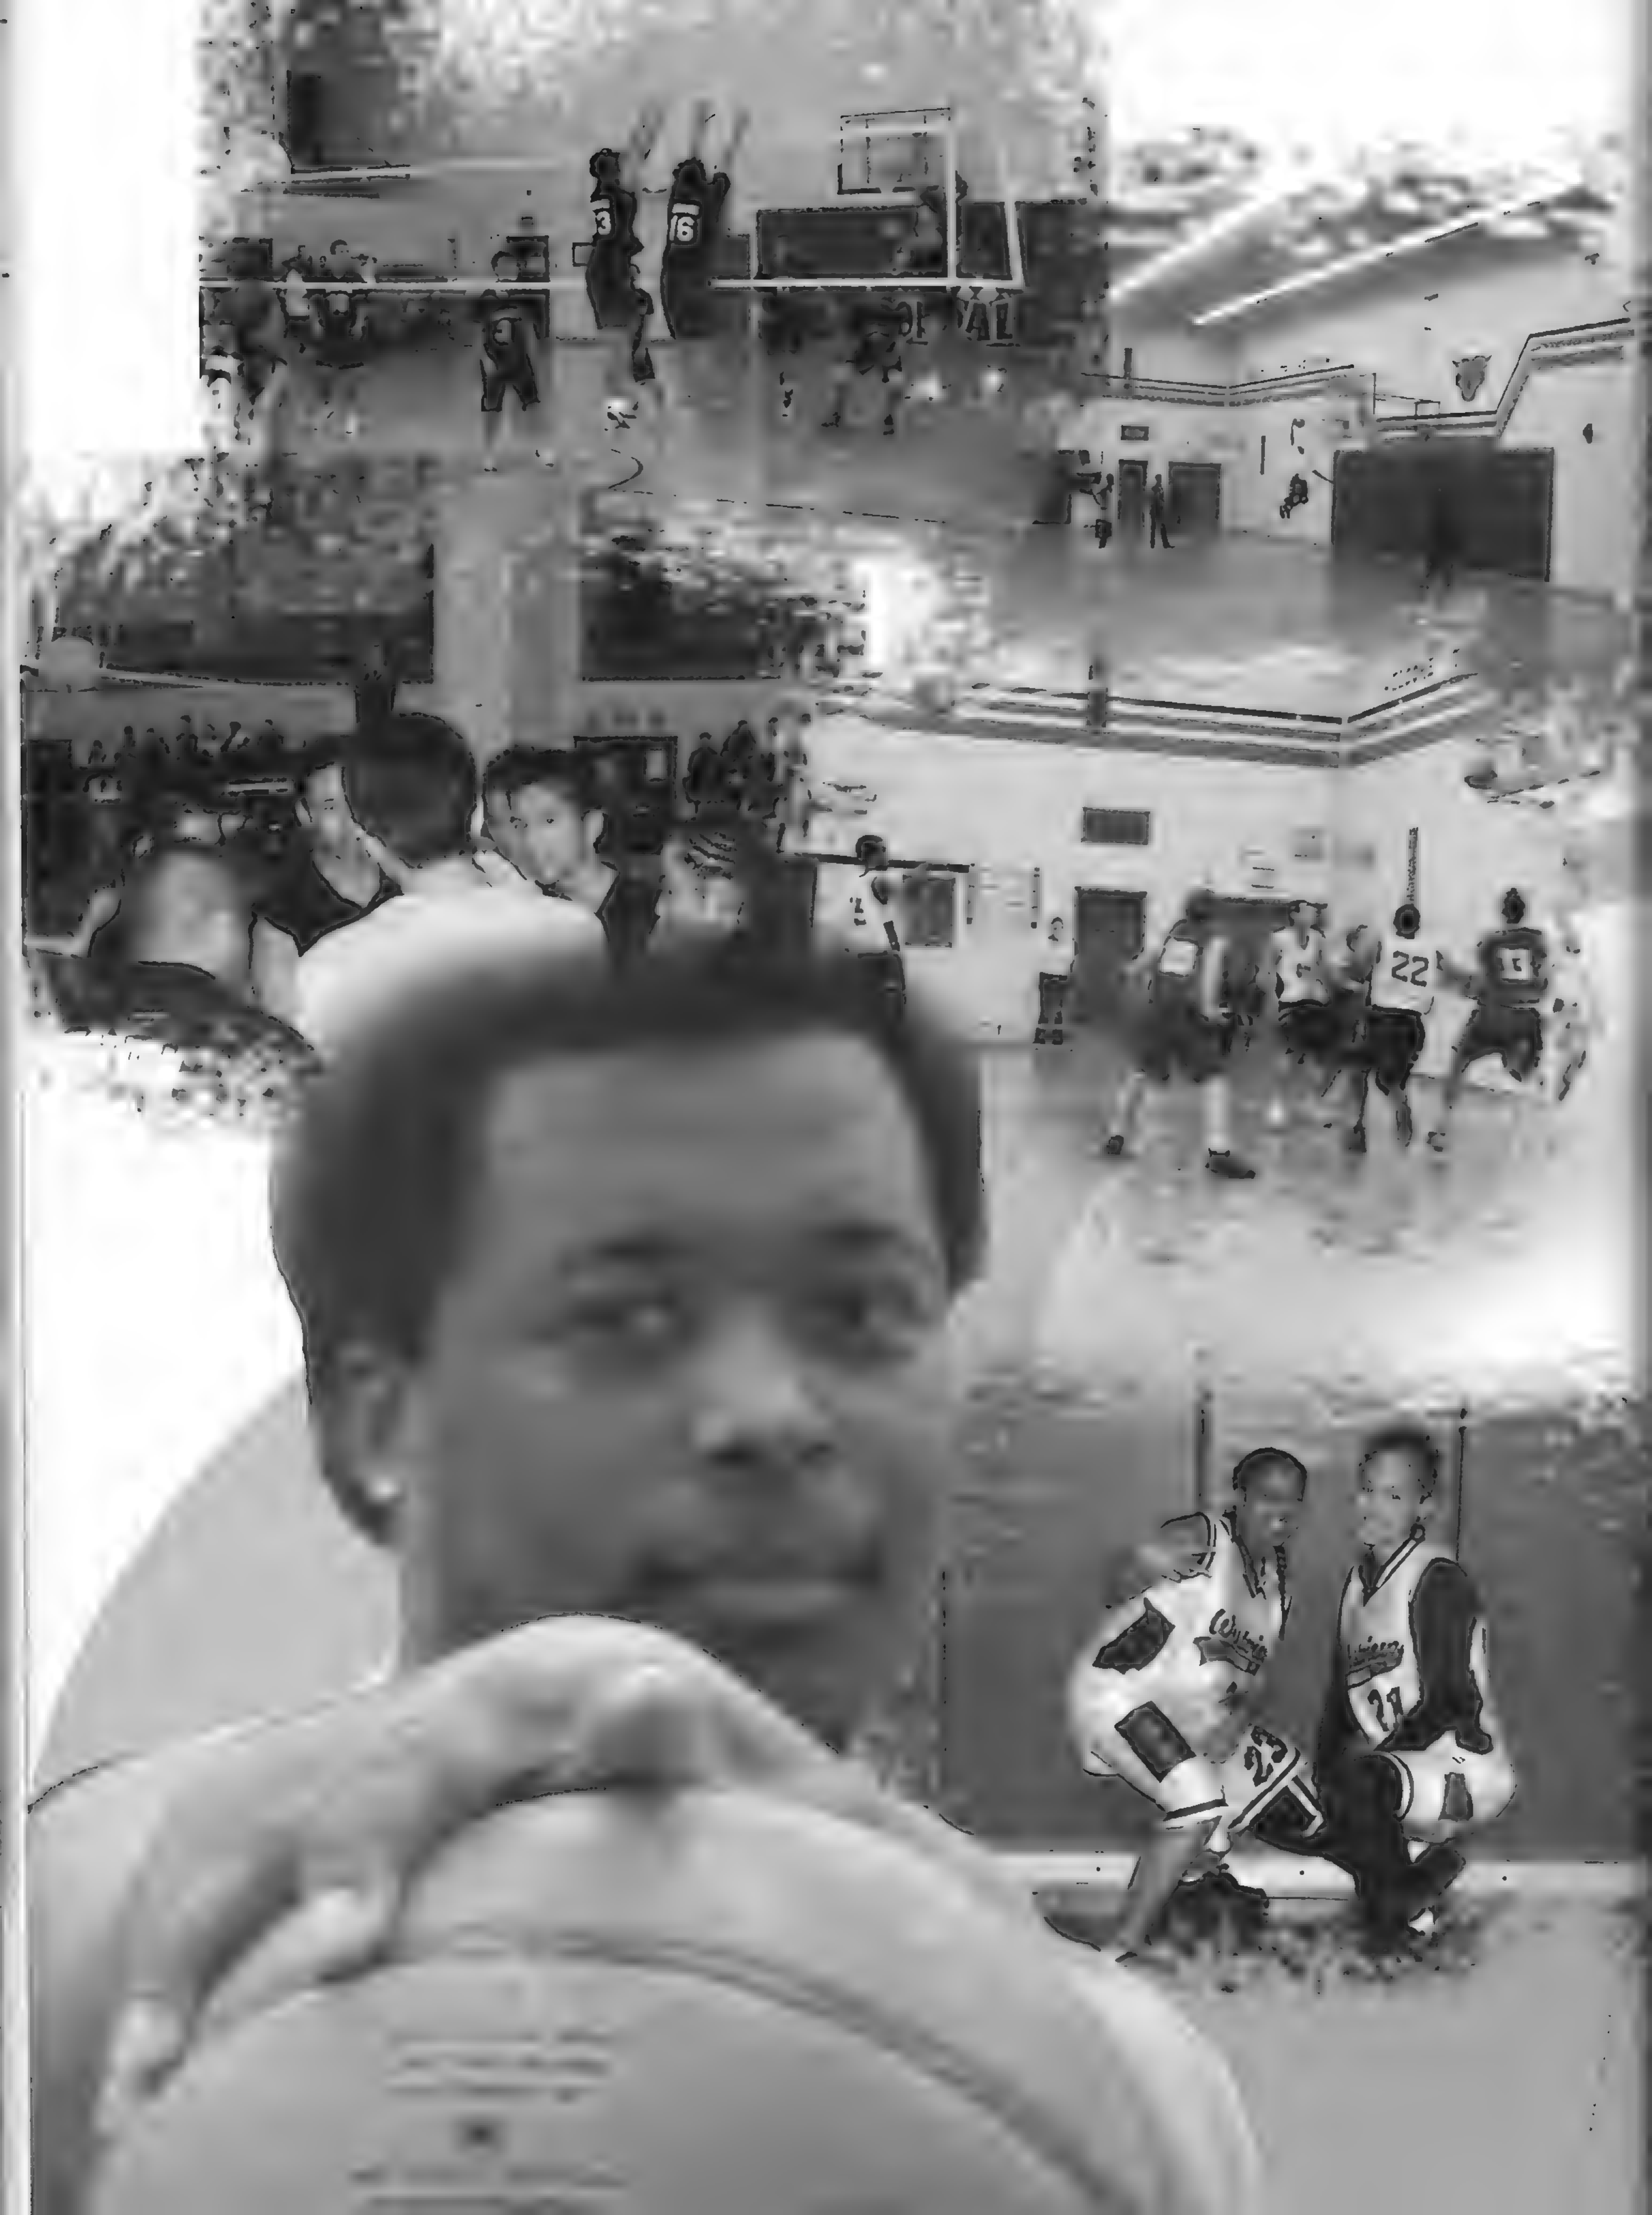

Basketball, volleyball and track and field teams benefitted from Sandy's abilities and leadership. Sandy qualified for the Metro Track & Field Championships for Long Jump.

Harveer Bindra - Midget Boys

Harveer earned the Midget awards for his dedication and performance as a member of Westview's cross-country, wrestling and track and field teams.

Westview was saddened this year by the loss of Mrs. Marina Wilson. Mrs. Wilson had been teaching at Westview for the past few years, bringing zest and enthusiasm to both the Business Education and Special Education Departments. Marina was a very unique person, who touched the lives of those people who were fortunate enough to know her. She was eager to listen when you needed to talk, and she was willing to offer advice when it was sought. Marina provided encouragement to both students and staff, and was particularly supportive in regards to goals, plans, and ideas that others might have for the future. She happily and frequently used the phrase "Go for it!" after listening to someone ponder their future plans. Another popular quote illustrated her knowledge of the difference between what was really important in life, and what wasn't such a big deal - "Don't sweat the small stuff!" Westview became a better place through its interaction with Marina Wilson. She is dearly missed.

Graduates

Class of 2004

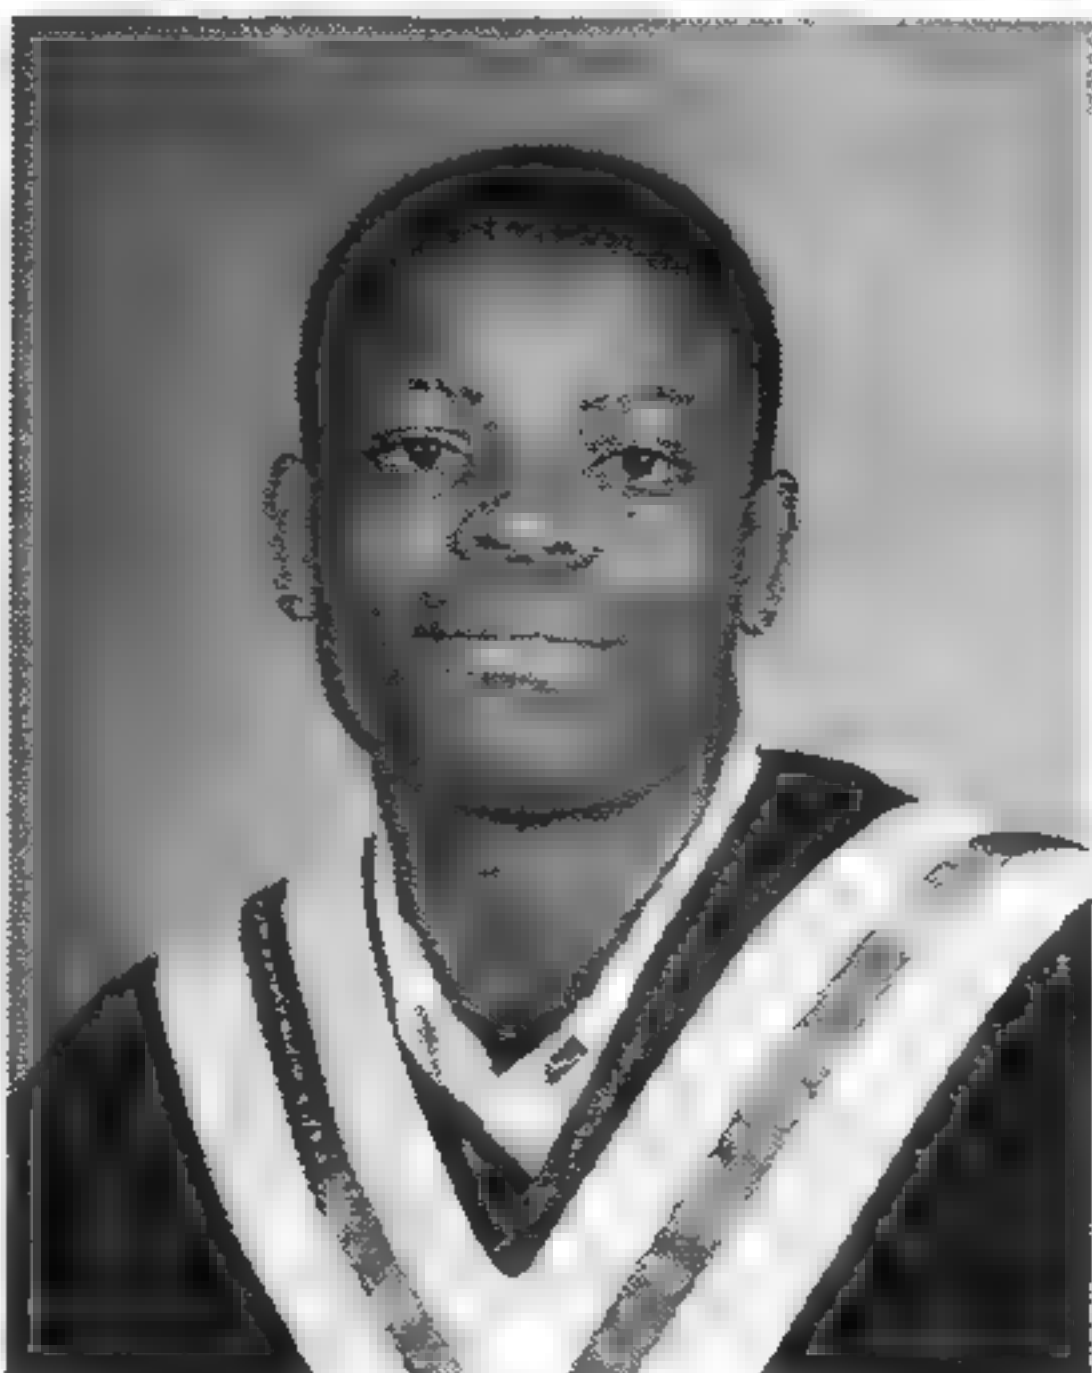

Ibrahim Abdi plans to become a professor or teacher. Ibrahim's favourite quote is: "life is what you make it". Favourite memory is graduating.

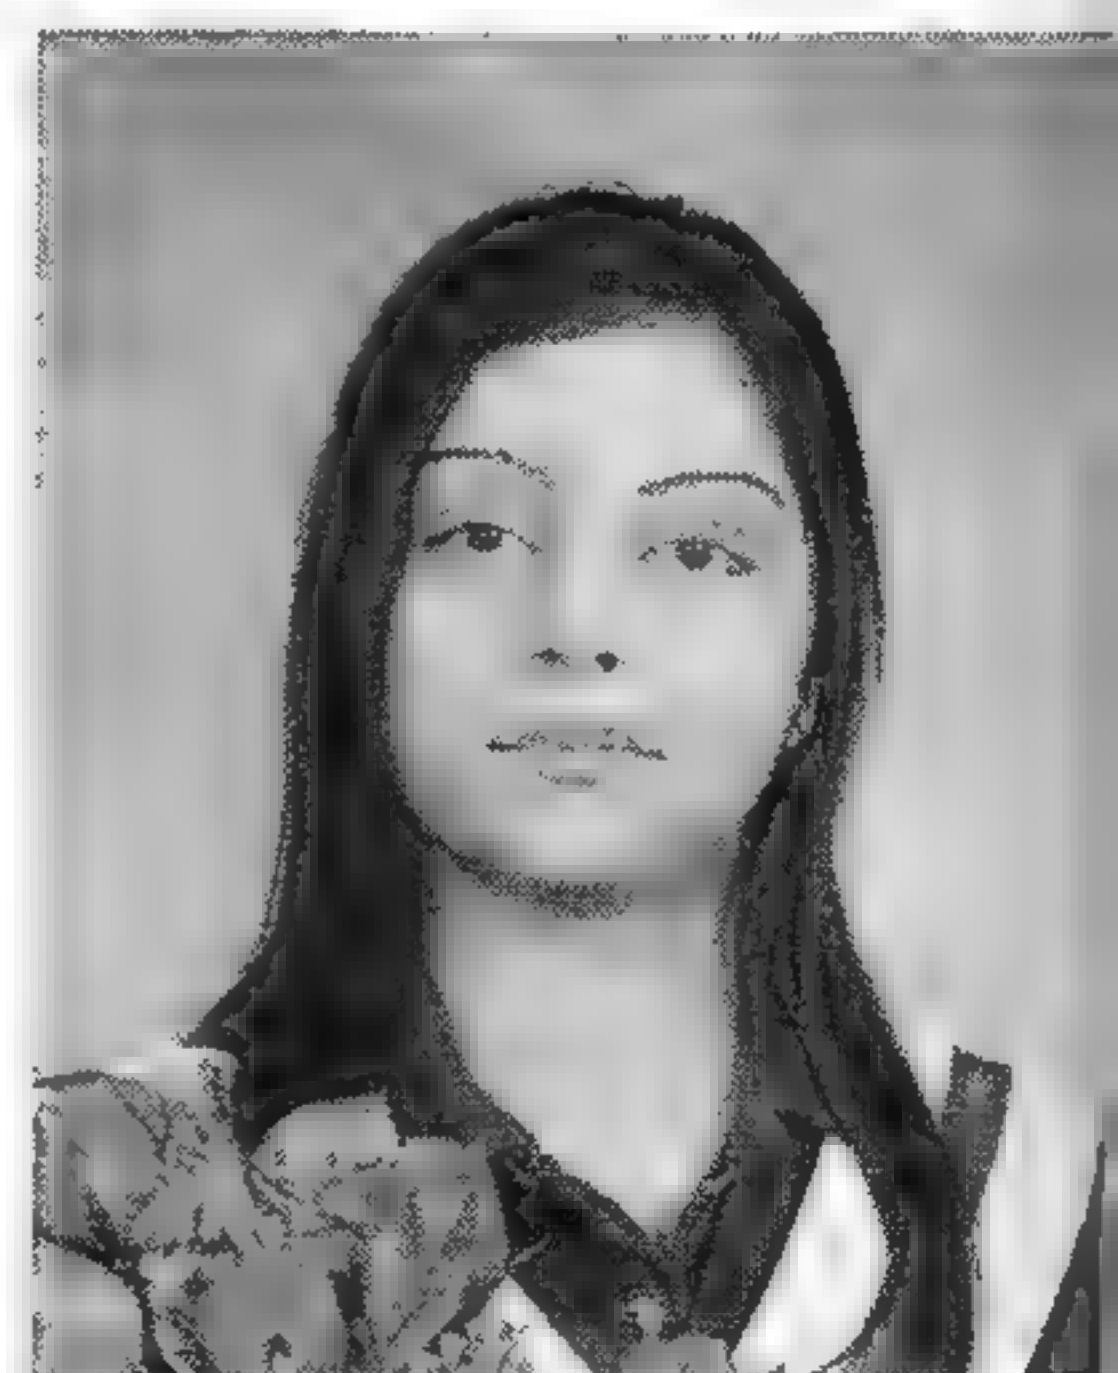

Ilhan Abdi, plans to go to university, get married and move to Saudi Arabia. She says, "Smile for you never know who might be falling in love with your smile". Watching the Lion King show was her most memorable moment at Westview.

Boyd Aimufua, plans on becoming a mechanical engineer (tool and die). He wants to remind us all to 'stay focused' and believes that if you smile hard enough you will start laughing. Boyd's most memorable moment was when he had the best marks in his class. He would like to give a 'big shout' to Mr McGee, Titilope and all his friends.

Manal Adram, nickname Mano, plans on staying in high school for 10 more years. "If it weren't for guys, I'd quit school," says Manal. The Christmas holidays and March Break were her best memories.

Dennis Danquah, nickname Georgee, would like to make it big in the music industry or start his own business. His favourite expression is, "Don't just talk the talk, walk the walk!" Dennis' best memory is beat boxing for the whole school to show them 'ma' skills.

Param Dhillon, AKA dj psd, plans to graduate from York and get married to his one and only. Param says "Look in the spaces between your fingers and remember. In those spaces, you can see my fingers locked with yours forever." His best high school memory was meeting his best friend.

Adrian Domiclong, nickname Ian, wrote his favourite saying is, "Buy the truth and do not sell it; get wisdom, discipline and understanding" Proverb 23:23.

Class of 2004

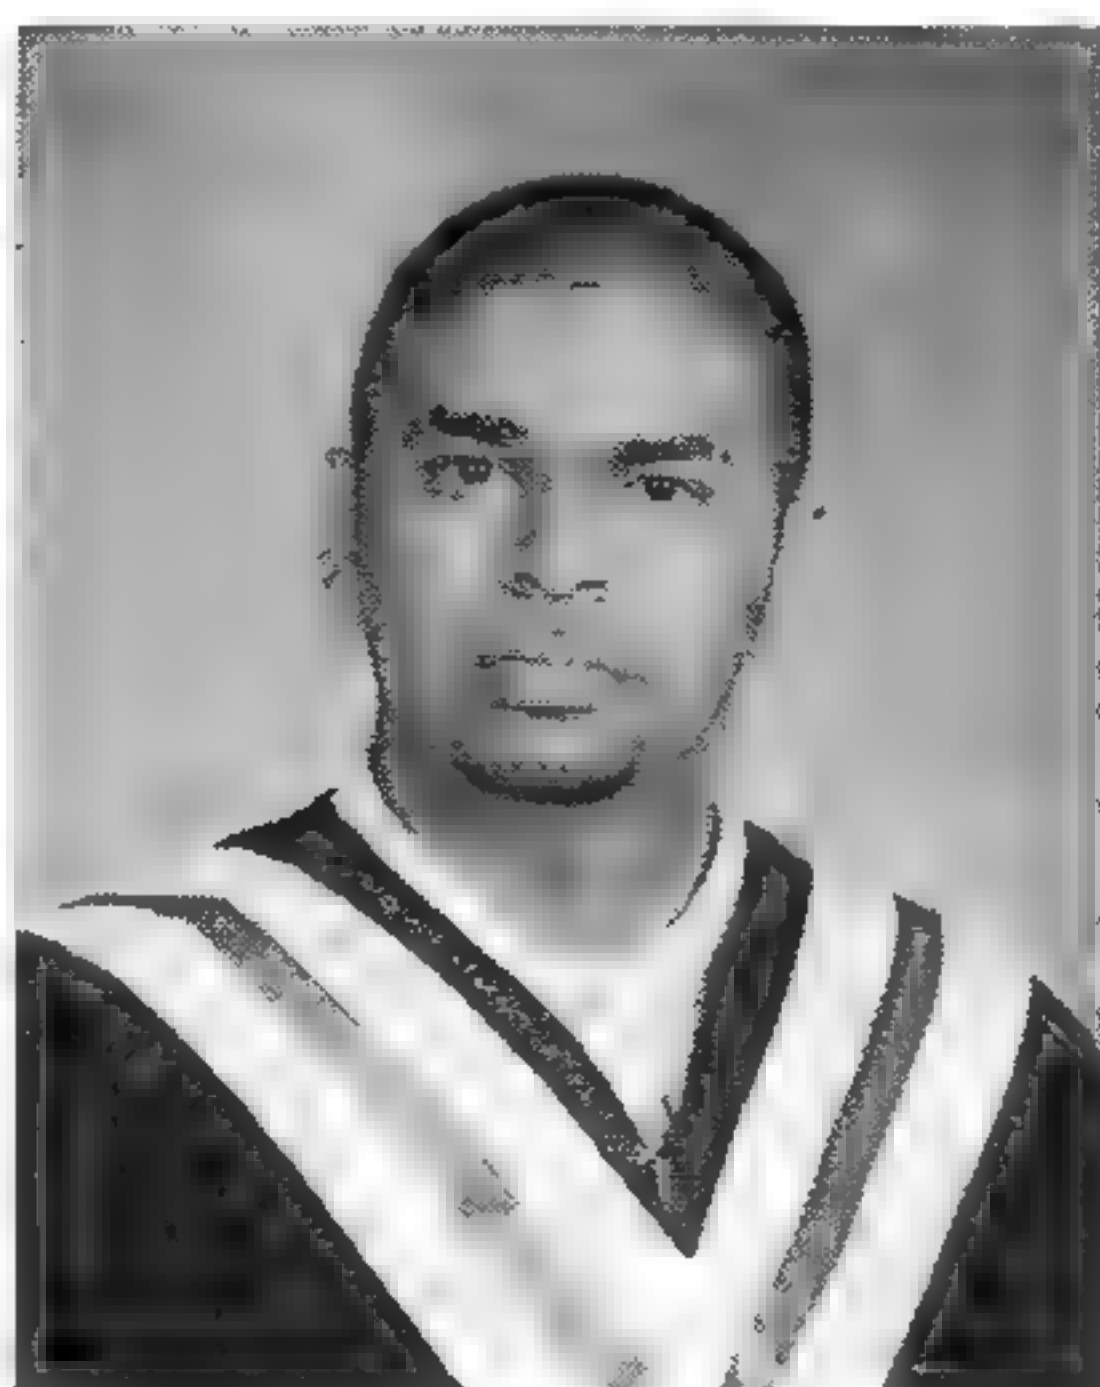

Yaa Duah, hopes to go to college and get into nursing. Yaa says, "Life depend on your decision and that you can run but you cannot hide". Leaving high school will be Yaa's best memory.

Steven Fung says in regards to his future: "No point planning for the future. How else can I enjoy the present?" His favourite quote is "Don't follow me. I'm not going where you want to go... don't need a guide either, my path is still uncertain." In regards to his best high school memory, he comments: "Looking back and knowing I wasn't a person everyone tried so hard to be."

Avinash Jaichand, nickname Coolie Romeo, plans to go to college, then open his own business. He says, "Don't let someone's opinion of you become your reality". His best memory is getting to leave high school.

Deepa Jaipersaud, nickname West end Queen or Dee, plans to go to college after high school to study nursing. After that, she will think about marriage providing that Mr. Right is around. Then she will think about having her three kids. Deepa's philosophy is that life is a challenge and the best way to get through it, is to defeat it one day at a time. Also, live each day to the fullest because you don't know if you are going to be able to see tomorrow. Enjoying the time that she spend with her girls, who are know to be her little sisters is Deepa's best memory.

Jenny Ha, nickname Jen or Jenny Penny, plans to attend university and study business. Jenny says, "It is easier to fail than to succeed because when you fail, no one ever expects anything from you." Jenny's best memory was meeting new friends and becoming even closer friends with P.M, S.C, S.K, (alphabetical order). "Love you guys".

Rayan Hargobind, AKA Squishy, has a simple plan—to succeed in everything he does in life. He plans to attend University and become an engineer and make a name for himself in the world. Rayan's favourite quote is "Pimp of the year, mack of the season. Your girl just left you, and I'm the reason." His best memory was the 2002-2003 Westview Hockey intramural. "Our team scores the dramatic game winning goal in a shoot-out to take out team to the finals."

Sagal Hosh Jibril, nickname Arawalo a.k.a Sagalina, says her pet peeve is people who annoy her and people who whine. She plans to go to University of Toronto or York University to study International Development and become a teacher somewhere overseas. After University, she plans to live a luxurious life, get married and have children. Her best memories of Westview were getting to know the students and teachers, and also spending every lunch with her "chocolate milk" sisters. Sagal says, "you were born original—don't die a copy."

Alina Huynh, nickname Alino, plans to become a doctor. Her favourite memories were all the funny moments shared with close friends.

Mayur Kapadia, hopes to experience life and see what the world has to offer. He says, "That's very Bollywood, don't you think?" His best Westview memory is the diversity of the school and being brown! Going through the happy days, the sad days and the bad days.

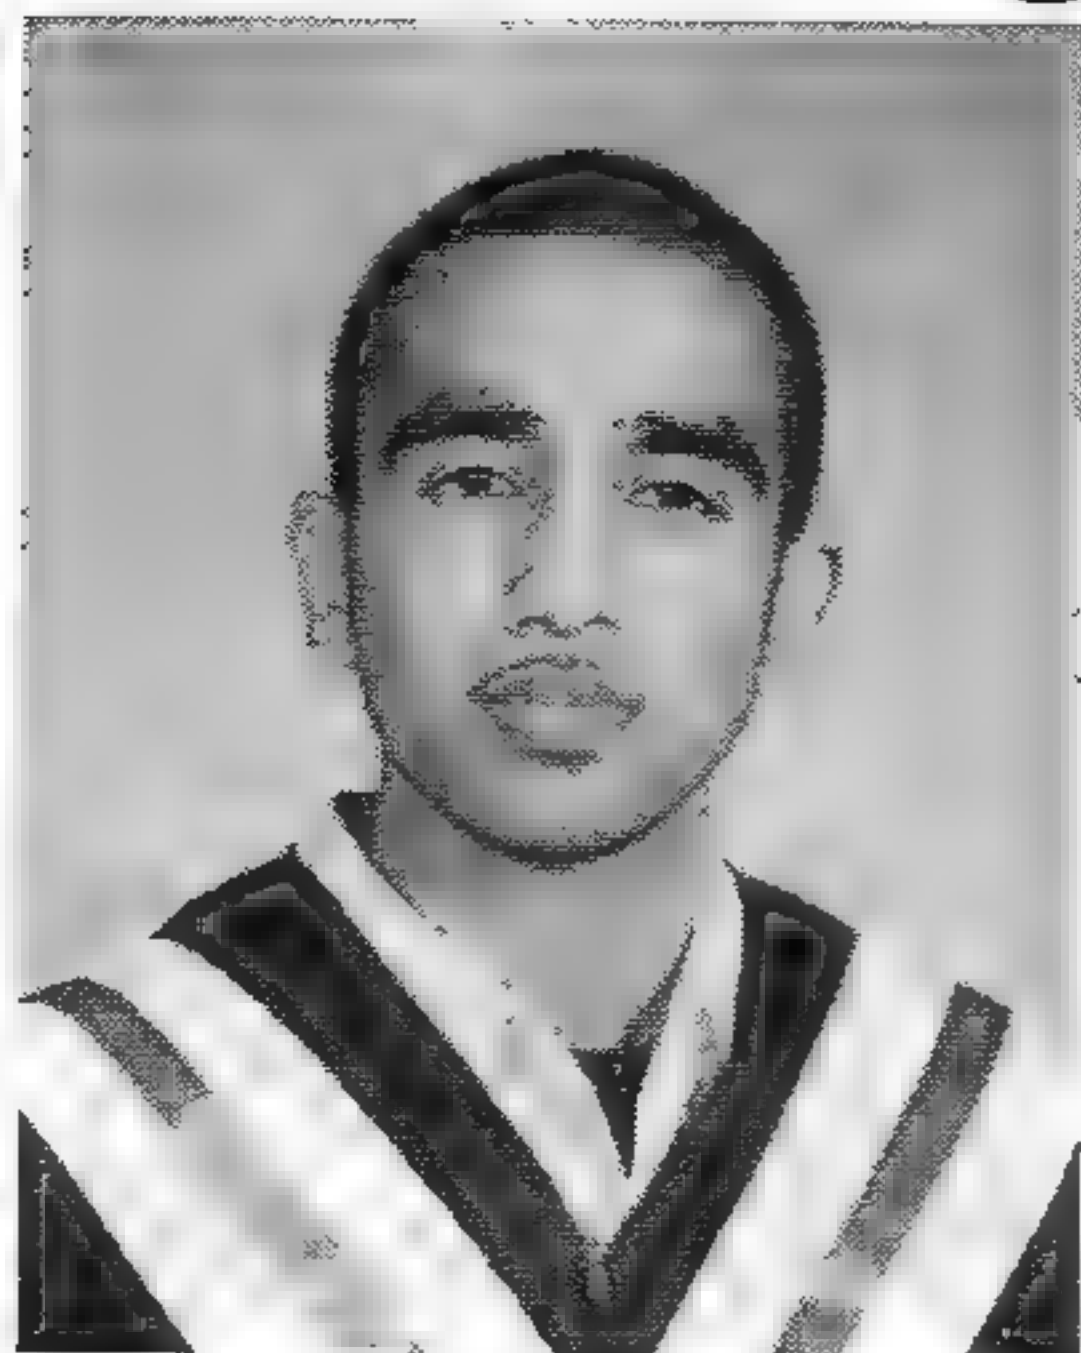

Alimatu Kargbo, wants to become a registered nurse in the future. Her advice to others is, "Give respect, fear no one."

Class of 2004

Nabeel Khan, nickname Beels, plans to be somewhere in the technology field in the future. He says, "Never look back, when it's over, it's over and life goes on". Nabeel's best Westview memory has been censored.

Phong Nguyen is unsure of his future plans. His favourite quote is "I'm just like that." His best high school memory was being with Dung.

Blessing Okyere, nickname The Bess-Unit, plans to become a Chef and hopes to study at Humber College or George Brown College. As Bless-Unit would say, "if you can't do it drop it, and if you can't drop it, then don't do it". She will never forget going up and down the school at lunchtime laughing out loud and calling people names, that was fun.

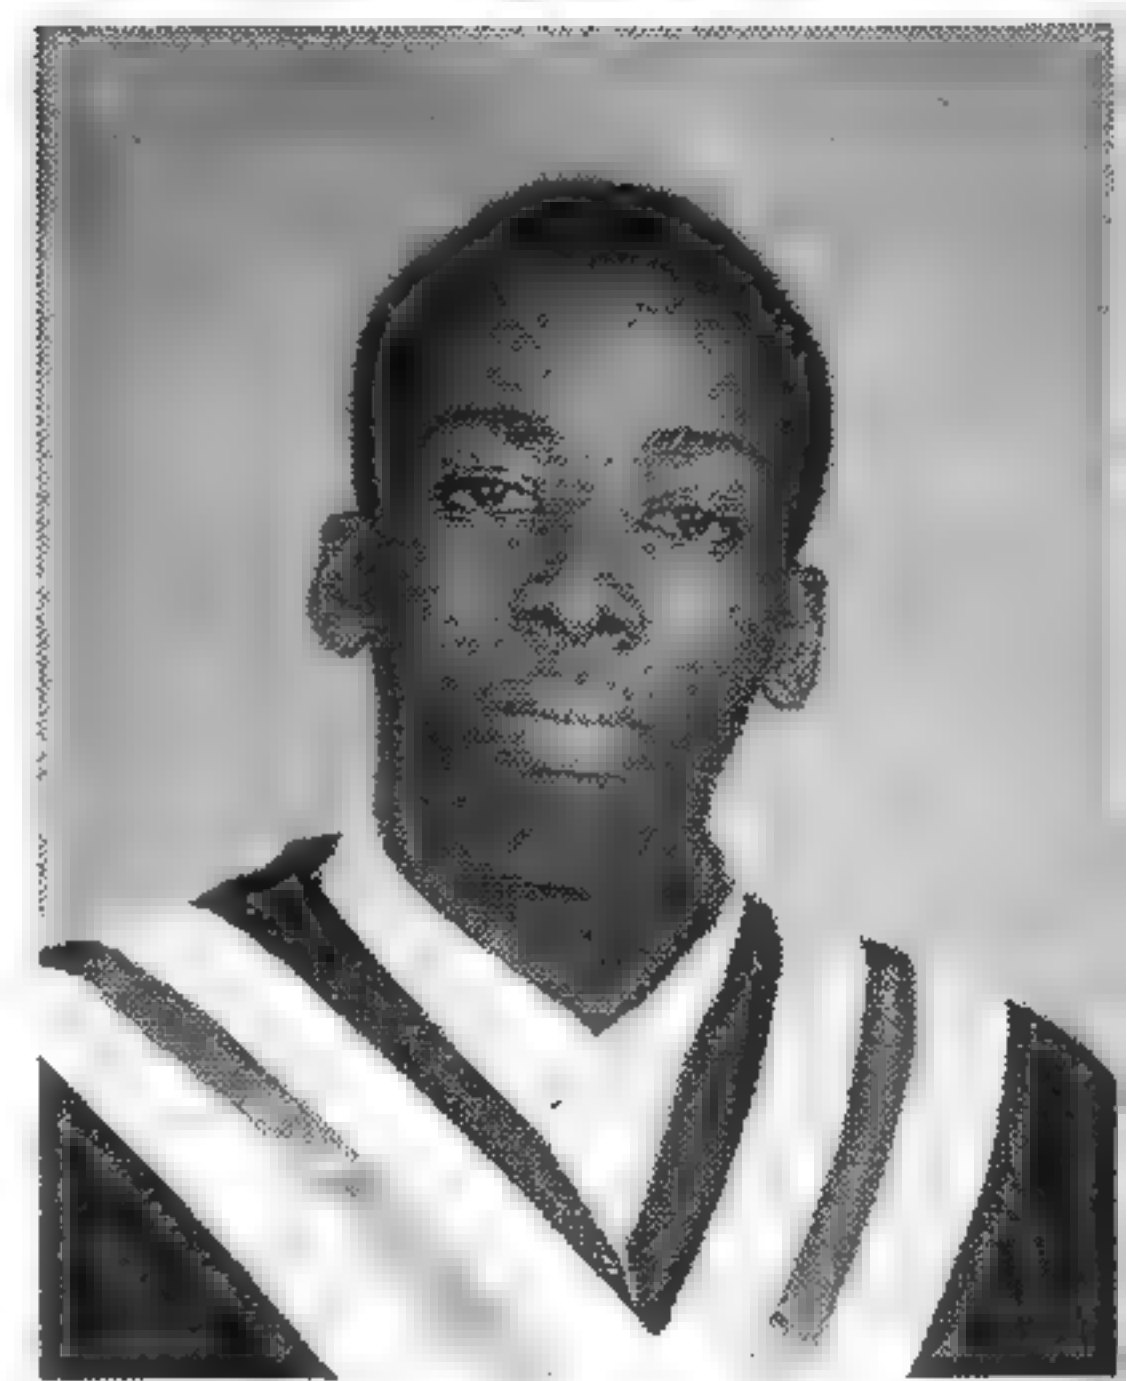

Class of 2004

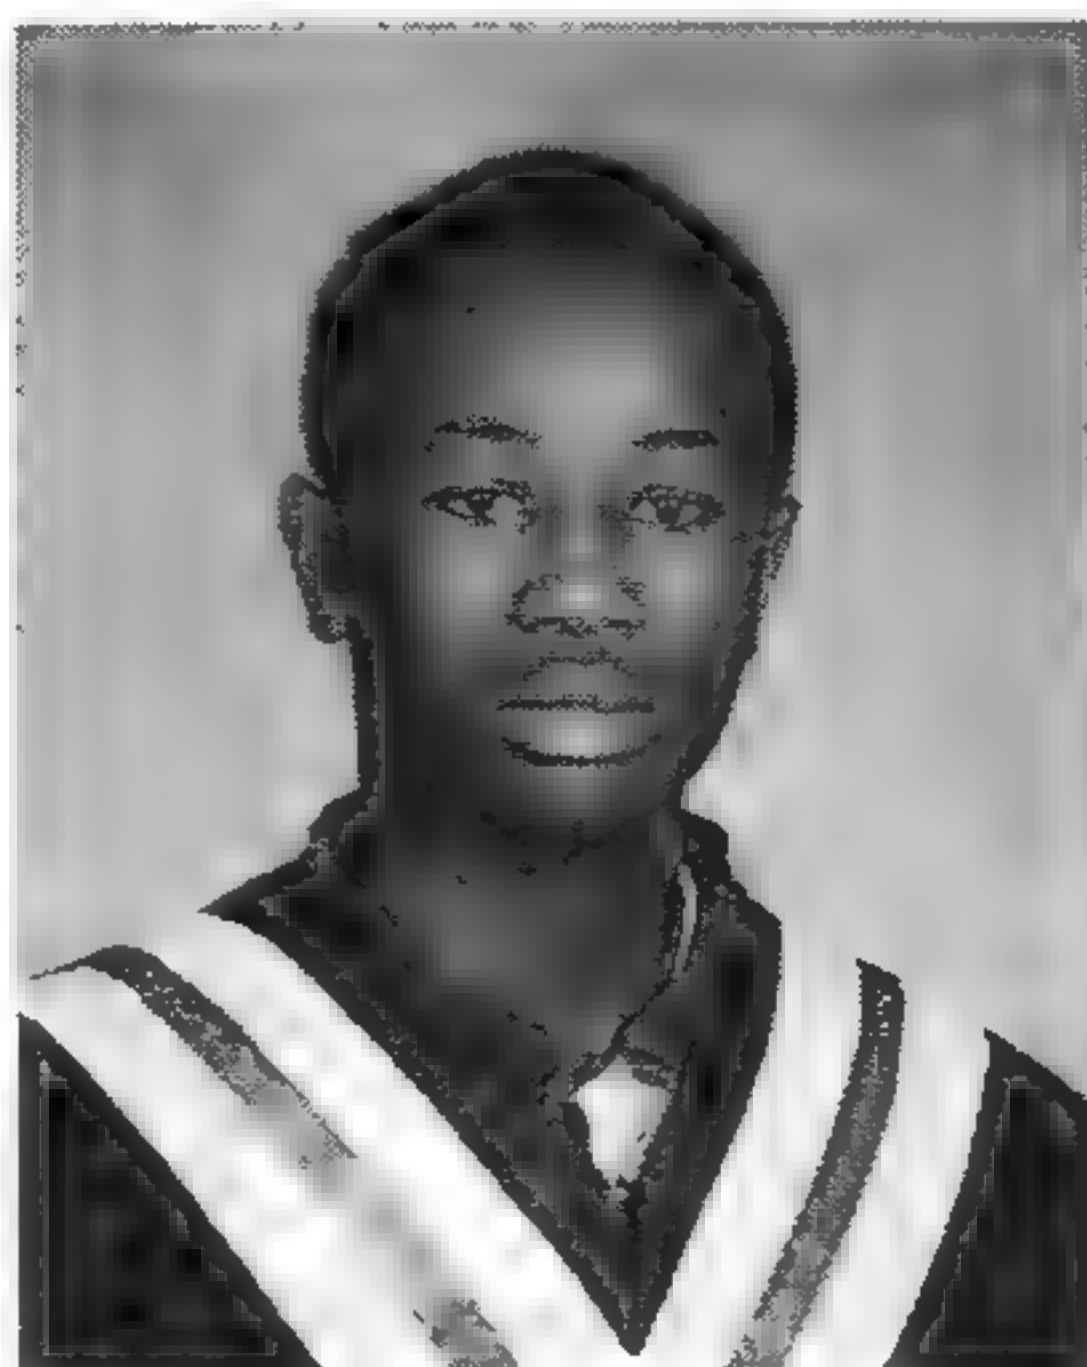

Mabel Osei-Akyere, nickname Mao, hopes to get into college to get her diploma and become her own boss. Mabel says, "There is no harm in trying" and "What goes around, comes around". Mabel's best memory will be leaving Westview and never coming back. (Amen.)

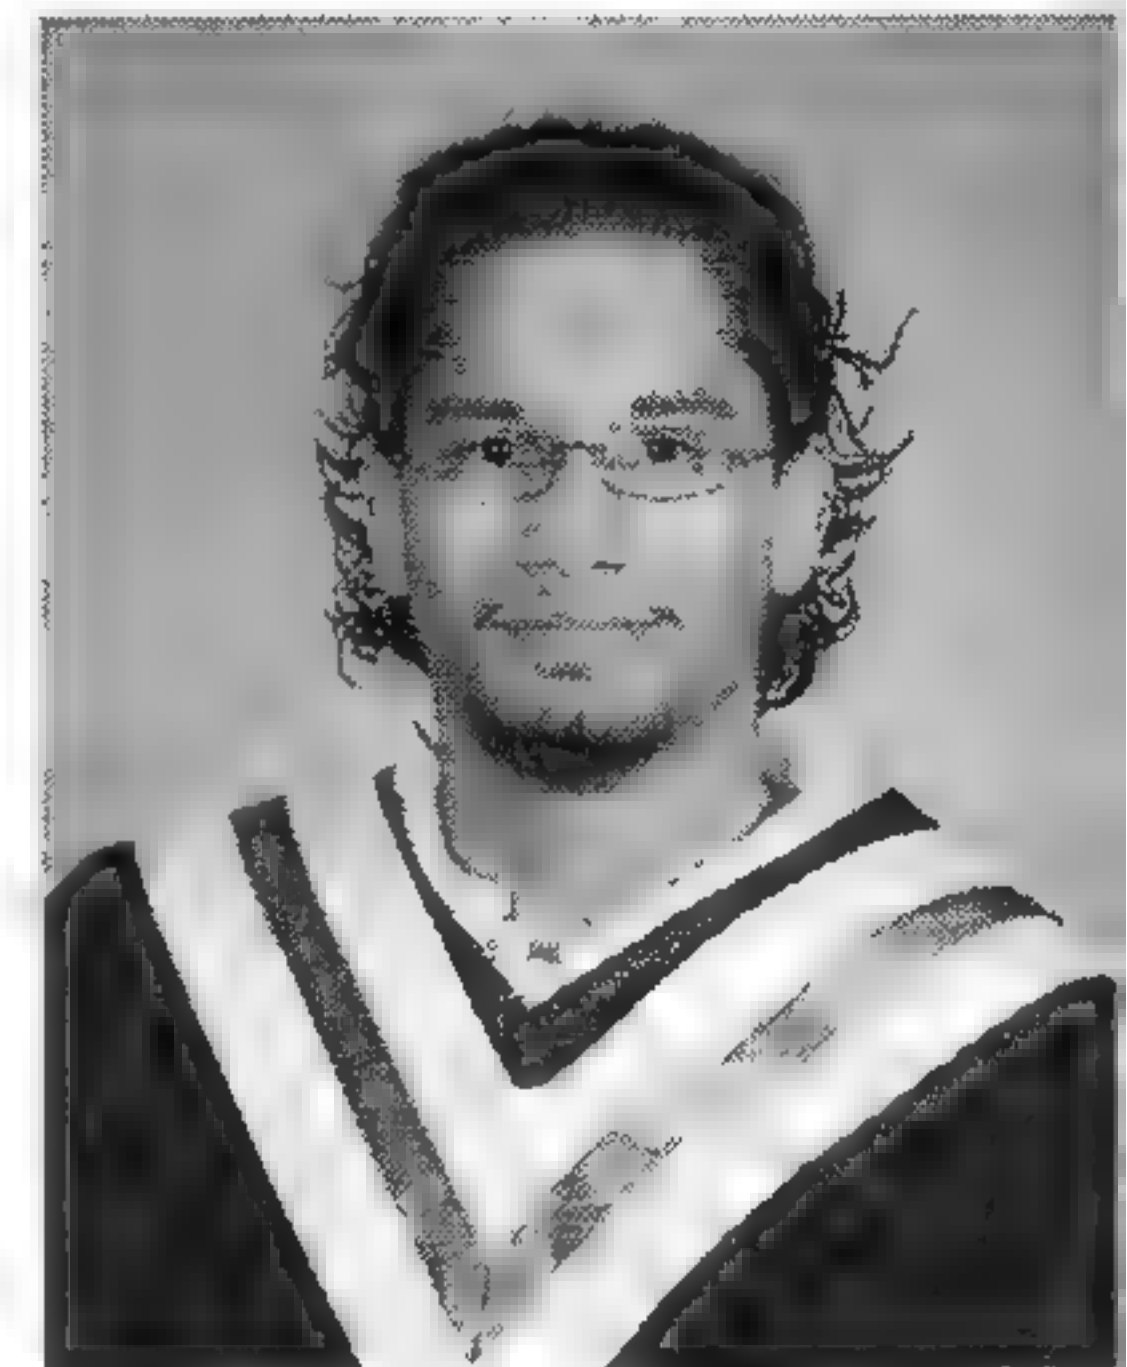

David Owusu, nickname K'yori, hopes to go off to York University to study corporate law, then end up working in a law firm in Toronto. He says, "I know this guy didn't just...". The Semi-finals in Westview's floor hockey tournament was his best memory. His team gave up a 6-2 lead and the game was decided in a shootout. With the weight of the work on his shoulders, the team captain, Sam Viera, was able to score the winning goal to take our team to the finals.

Edward Owusu, nickname U-Bird, plans to go to college or university, get a degree or degrees and make money. Edward says, "I life 2 live". He has no Westview memories.

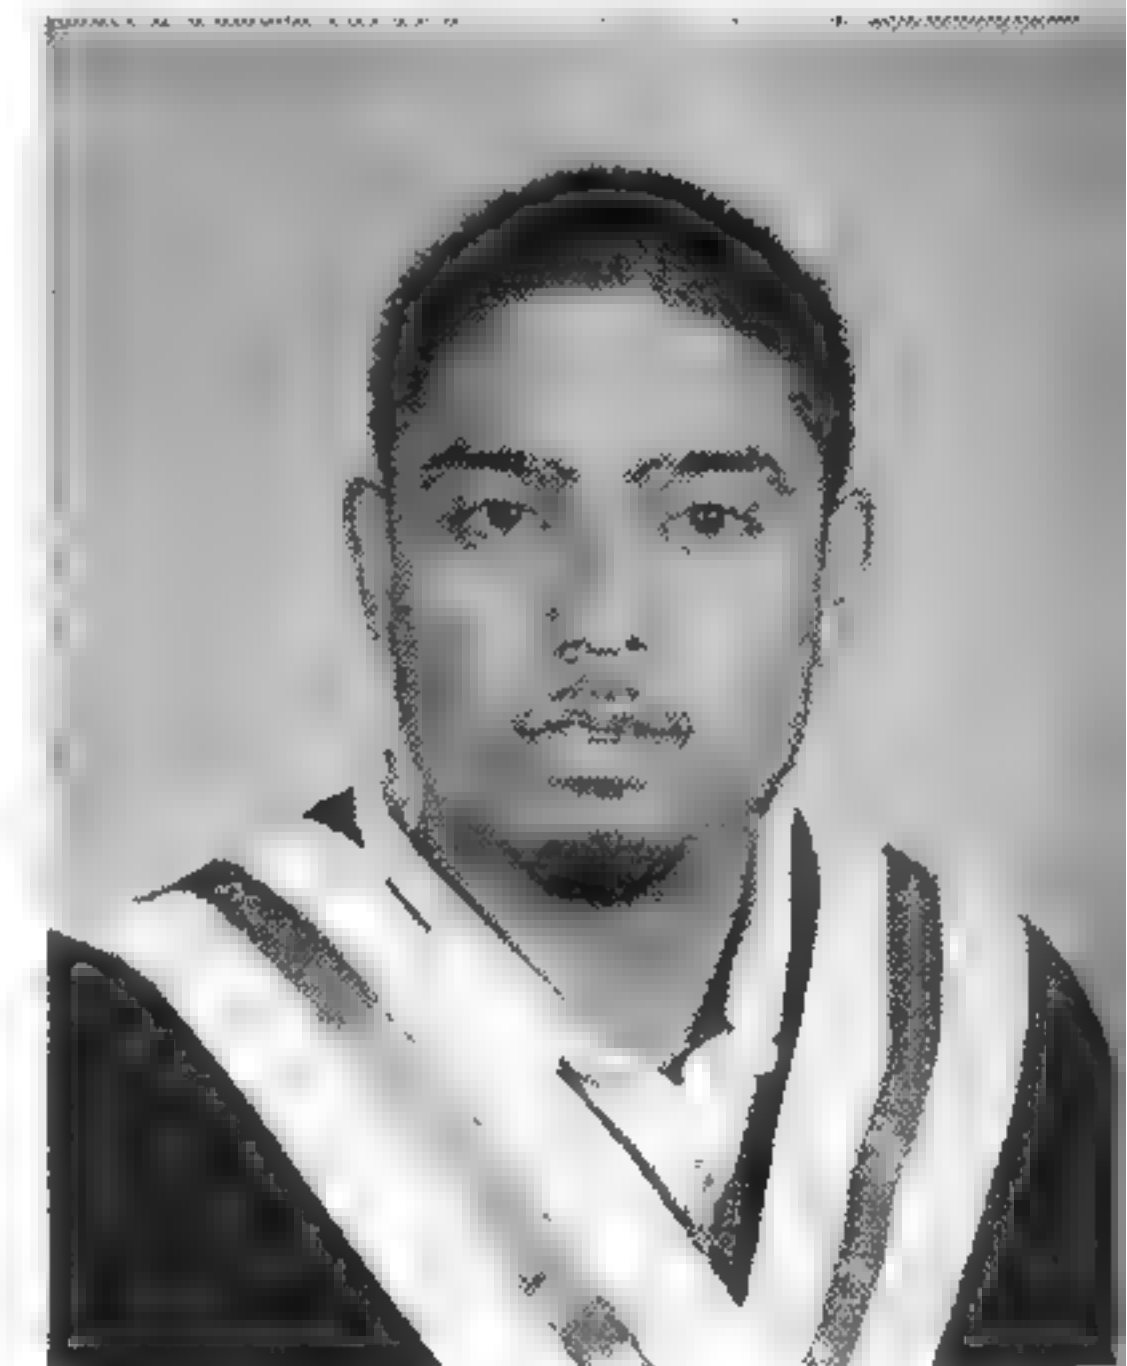

Chris Parbhu, nickname Jebus, plans to attend college and pursue a career in the field of computer technology. His favourite saying is: "Yo Bregin!" For Chris, every memory he had of Westview is great.

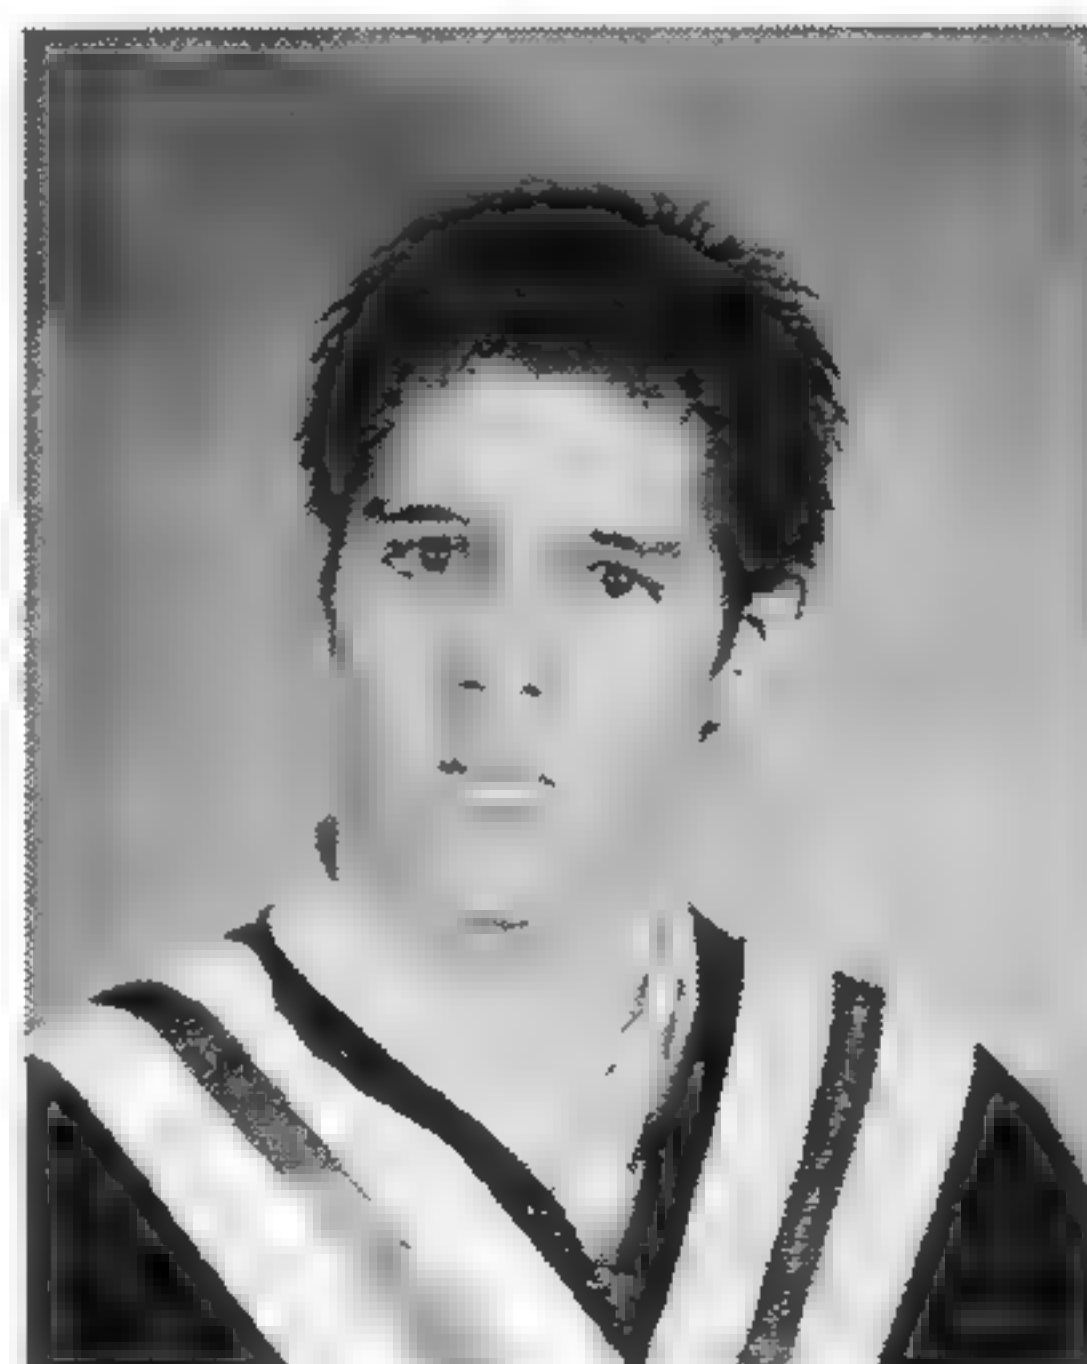

Brijesh Patel, nickname Brij, plans to go to university to study computer science. Brijesh says, "Friendship is like a glass, so handle it with care. Once it's broken, it's hard to repair." His best high-school memories were working in the library, volunteering on Parents Night, and all the fights at Westview.

Steve Piroo, nickname Skinny Blitz and Perry Winkel, plans to own his own business soon after university. Steve says, "To whom much is given, much is required." His best memory was when JYD came to Westview.

Gustavo Polo's, AKA "G", "Bob and Joe Man", and "Man who talks to birds", favourite memory was getting married five times in Mr. Duffin's families course and using a garbage bag to make a rob looking like the one Martin Luther used (not Martin Luther King Jr.)

Obo-osa Ralladi, hopes to go to college to study business and work her way up to becoming an accountant one day. She quotes, "Life is not a fun game".

Sophath Rouss, nickname Pat, plans to have a Bachelor of Science in Nursing in the future. "We want what we want when we want it, even if we can't decide what that is yet," says Sophath. Going out with friends to lunch regularly to eat junk food is her best high school memory.

Urmela Sankar, nickname Smiley, plans to go to university to study in the field of business. Hopefully, she will become CEO of a successful company, get married and have two kids. "In his heart a man plans his course but the Lord determines his steps", says Urmela. Her best memory is in Grade 11 when she met M.O. and meeting true friends.

Class of 2004

Regi Santhinathan, nickname ThA SoLuTiOn, Miller, the Regster, plans to be a computer engineer. His favourite quotes are "Only @ Westview", and "Don't even lie". His favourite memory is "the dawning" of a new clique named the 'PNC'".

Rosemary De Los Santos, AKA Rose, plans to become an advertising account executive and "maybe a 'baller' on the side". Rosemary says, "Time will teach thee all things". Her best highschool memory was meeting Jamal Clarke.

Samantha Seebalack, AKA Sammy, marshmallow, and Mad Fiyal, plays on going to University and attend Law School to become a criminal/family lawyer. Samantha says, "It's with true love as it is with ghosts—everyone talks about it, but nobody sees it. Her best memories were "a little too embarrassing".

Sopheap Sem, nickname Peap, plans to play the lotter with the numbers: 8, 13, 21, 25, 39, 41, and 44, and win 30 million dollars. His best high school memories were all the camping trips.

Saeeda Shoja, nickname Palwsha, plans on attending college or university. He says, "I open my purse and found it empty, I reached into my pocket and found a few coins, then I searched my heart and found you! That's when I realized how rich I am".

Agyakar Singh, nickname maX, intends to be part of an economic typhoon by formulating a new IT invention using his skills and colleagues. "Mostly God and a little bit of the 'nothing is impossible' mentality will put us through." His favourite quotes are: "The future belongs to those who seek to go beyond the limits of pursuing it" and "Long live the SS2 mentality :)". His best high-school memory was his whole time at Westview. "My whole time here has been one big memory that gradually sweetened more and more leading into grade twelve. All the things I did and people I've met, especially friends, are the most memorable part."

Vic Singh, nickname Bush Coolie, wants to go to college, get a job and have nice cars.

Wendy Smith, wants to attend college this fall and become a registered nurse. Wendy says, "Do the best you can with what you have and you will always have enough".

Jessa Suiela Bella Soloman, nickname Suzy, plans to become a politician. Her favourite quote is: "To educate a man in mind and not in morals is to educate a menace to society. Live everyday as if it would be your last; work everyday as if you would live forever." Her best high-school memory was putting her leadership skills into practice everyday.

Sophonn Teng, nickname neKoh, plans to work, earn money, get more schooling, and then have a career. His favourite saying is, "Fishin' for Dreams". His best memory would be when school finally ended.

Kamar Thompson, nickname D-Lo or K-mart, plans to become an auto mechanic and a business man with his own business. Kamar says, "It's better to be prepared than not to have an opportunity!" His best memories were being on the honour roll three times, being a third place medalist in wrestling, a two-time OFSAA qualifier, and a city-state champion.

Vien Trang, AKA VnT, plans to graduate from university, then "hopefully" work in the field of business. Vien says, "Dude, you're screwed, man!" His best high school memory was winning two medals in a row for the floor hockey intramural (posting a combine 13-0-0), and to see the looks on the Blossom Maple Leafs' faces when they beat them.

Afua Adjubi Yankey plans to go to college and get a good job and be her own boss. Adjubi says, "Be your best to become your best." Her best memory was joining the Westview's Girls Soccer team and going to the semi-finals. Amen.

Chi Lea Tran, AKA dj fenix and Superman, has no real plans for the future. "There are too many things to see; too many things to learn. How can anyone choose just one?" He says, "What's the point of crying, complaining, or being disappointed? Is it going to solve anything, or are you just trying to look for pity?" Chi Lea's reminisces of the times spent in the yearbook committee and remembers the time of when one of the computers locked in the closet had an alarm going off, and nobody had a key to that room. He remembers the times spent with those that were important to him. His last words of advice are "Remember that those that matter do not mind; those that mind do not matter."

Eric Van AKA AIRic. I am planning to get into the journalism field, but god knows what I really want to be! I like to say "So what if I'm gay?" when people tell me I'm gay. My favourite memory has to be doing the YEARBOOK! Yeah right, acutally it was all my soccer experiences, especially OFSAA... WHOOOO

VALEDICTORIAN 2003 - TROY LOGAN

Good evening relatives and friends, teachers, administrators, honoured guests, and the support staff who make sure that Westview Centennial Secondary School operates on a daily basis -Ms Gulli and the rest of our beloved secretaries. Also, to the people who take care of us and our home away from home- the Caretakers.

On behalf of Westview's graduating class of 2003, I have to say that, because of your constant looking over our shoulders, countless suggestions (which I for one sometimes thought to be useless), but most importantly, infinite faith in us, and unconditional love for us-we have made it. NO! Not the top of our mountains. But higher than where we were in grade 9.

GRADUATES! Can you imagine being in grade nine again? Do you remember your nerves shaking as if you were about to descend from the top of Drop Zone at Canada's Wonderland? Do you remember trying to find your first class or giving your first oral presentation? I do. I also remember that Mr. Lorbergs still looks the same after these five long years of incredible change. Then there was grade ten, the dreaded Pythagorean Theorem (and the phrase that a lot of us here tonight said at least once: "I'm not going to need this math stuff in the real world!"). In grade 11, we all had a teacher whose class we would love to be in - Mr. Darcy Mohr. However, Grade 12 served as the ultimate test for all of us here tonight. Some of us here tonight endured sleepless nights, nervously studied before and after school, handed in papers done the night before, and received marks that seemed as though the world was about to end. Then along came O.A.C.'s. Just let me say that OAC did not mean Ontario Academic Credit to me when I was finished with them. (It was more like "Our Administrators' Curse"). Yet, all of us traveled our own distinct paths in the wonderful world of Westview: stopped to watch school plays; participated in food drives and fundraisers; beat the teachers basketball team; listened to the choir and Mr. Soares' band; and even skipped with glee. The good thing about it is that all roads led to Westview Centennial Secondary School's Commencement 2003.

In other words...A DREAM COME TRUE!

A dream dreamt by a diverse set of grade 9 children. A dream manifested by an assembly of distinguished adults, whom I have been bestowed the honour of speaking for tonight. The experiences, that each one of us faced in the last five years of our lives (to be a part of this spectacular night) are infinite. Some are even impossible to explain. We have lost friends and family along the way...but we blessed with new ones. Some we will forget, or lose contact with...and others...we will always remember. But thank God for Bill Gates and his innovative communication methods and his marvelous MSN Messenger. (Sounds like a poem from a Hallmark card doesn't it?)

A favourite memory of mine here at Westview happened just last year and I challenge the faculty and students to cherish it. An angel, named Mr. Perry Mallinos, (our late principal) graced the same stage that I stand on now—dressed in a five foot long blonde wig—dancing in the spirit of the '60's Hippy Movement; accompanied by our vice principals: Mr. Jones, Ms. Zimny, and Ms. Santos - overly exploited in the latest fashion of today's pop-culture. Absolutely Hilarious! This was the first time I ever felt the warmth of a completely unified and harmonious school spirit in these walls here at Westview. Our administrators' message was clear: besides the humour, let us never forget that our teamwork can attain any result that we desire. The daddy that I always longed for, Mr. Bob Duffin, drilled this concept in my adolescent brain year after year with his teaching, I respectfully call Duffinism. My second mother, Ms. Teresa Smith, reinforced this life lesson with the facts and principles of Positive Peer Culture. (I LOVE YOU BOTH FOR INFINITY AND BEYOND.)

The other night, I was spending countless hours in front of the TV. and a man named Joel Osteen said: "Life is a journey and there is no such thing as the finishing line, because once you reach your desired destination, you are ready to begin what seems like another race."

Just when you are getting comfortable with life, nature demands that you change. And it is left in the hands of each individual to either change...or not change. However, it is always easier to make this change for the better when you have a friend to help you along the way. When I first began high school in grade nine, I did not have any sense of direction (not even in grade ten) and I would rebel like a peasant from the French Revolution. Nevertheless, there was always someone in my corner (specifically, the heaven-sent Joyce Mensah) to whisper in my ear: "change is a slow process, take it easy Troy". What do you know?... I slowly began to change for the better, and eventually my dream came true when I received an acceptance letter from York University.

However, Joel Osteen was right when he said, "Once you reach your desired destination, you are ready to begin, what seems like another race." When classes began in September, I quickly realized that I no longer dreamt of just being at university. (Rather, I began dreaming of graduate school (which is more than 7 years away). It is fair for me to say, that after tonight, our dreams will force us to return to life's journey.

I want to reiterate to the graduates here tonight (Canada's future doctors, lawyers, scientists, politicians, entertainers, parents, filmmakers, teachers, basically...the leaders of tomorrow) that dreams are what keep us striving day to day; hour to hour; minute to minute; second to second - so CONTINUE DREAMING. Furthermore, let us remember the countless suggestions given to us, infinite faith others have in us, and unconditional love others have for us...because... it is the only way we will get to the top of your mountains.

And now I come to the end of my speech, and because this is not a BET award ceremony, I cannot end with an elaborate thank you. However, I will anyways. Thank you mom and the rest of my family and friends for being the support system that you are; Ms. Adolph, Mr. McGee and the rest of the guidance department; Ms. Eng for your ineffable sense of understanding; my new found Teddy Bear; Mr. Samuels for listening to my pointless stories; Mr. Gaskin for teaching me not to say "like" and "um" in formal conversations; Ms Griffith and Ms. Ladoucer (for without them I could not have put this speech together); all of Westview's staff; and last but definitely not the least of people to be recognized....Westview Centennial Secondary School's graduating class of 2003....for allowing me...to be your Valedictorian.

Thank you.

CONGRATULATIONS
GRADUATES!

Memory

On December 2003, Christina Sukhdeo, a Westview student was murdered by her ex-boyfriend. This is a terrible loss for her family, friends, and to everyone at Westview. This is a tribute for her, and it is our way to let her know that she will always be in our memories.

Christina Sukhdeo

"If I would have known"

If I would have known it was the last time I would see you
 I would not have left
 If I would have known that I wasn't going to talk to you again
 I would have talked forever
 If I would have known you were going to leave so soon
 I would have came earlier
 If I would have known you were an angel
 I would have prayed more often
 If I would have known that you were so wonderful
 I would have gotten to know you better
 If I would have known.....
 Can no longer be
 Because now you are gone
 Now I know
 What I wish I knew then
 But now
 It's too late
 Though never the end
 One day I know
 I will see you again
 Up In heaven

Rest in peace Christina Sukhdeo

Journey of Dreams

Beyond the great beyond,
 Disembarking on a great journey,
 She travels towards the life,
 And gallops to it in a hurry,
 Walking with great excitement,
 She lives in us all,
 Still needing our help,
 Without us she will fall,
 Together we should sing,
 Give her the strength that she hungers,
 Forward she strides,
 With knees strong, she glides,
 Forward to her dream,
 But forever she will be by our side...

"Chrissy's point of view" - this is a dedication from Christina to us...

You close your eyes; I come to see you one more time
Please don't cry, I want you to know its not goodbye
Cuz in your dreams, I will be waiting for you
Wipe your tears; you always have me to talk to
I will always be right here, say my name and I'll be there

Just dream of me and I'll be there for you
Just smile and in awhile I'll be there for you
If you ever feel the need
Close your eyes and you will see
If you ever miss me, I'll always be here with you

Don't say no, I can't explain why I must go
You're not alone; cuz in your heart is my home
If you're ever down I'm here for you
And when you laugh I'll be laughing too
I will always be right here, think of me and I'll be there
You're always the one who cared...

Just dream of me and I'll be there for you
Just smile and in awhile I'll be there for you
If you ever feel the need close your eyes and you will see
If you ever miss me, I'll always be here with you

Just think of how we laughed and happy thoughts
All the memories that we got
All the times that we shared
Think of me and I'll be there...

Just dream of me and I'll be there for you
Just smile and in awhile I'll be there for you
If you ever feel the need close your eyes and you will see
If you ever miss me, I'll always be here with you

...you close your eyes; I come to see you one more time...

Written By: Sylvia Im

Whenever I close my eyes, I still can see your beautiful face
And I know that a smile like yours can never be replaced
You walked among us as a friend
Unfortunately, it has come to an end
For you were too precious for this land
God wanted you back in his hands
Because heaven was missing an angel
And now we're missing ours too
In my heart
Our friendship shall never part
In my mind I can always go back to "that time"
To the first time we met...
A day I shall never forget
Your charming smile is engrained in memory
In your short life and your after life you have become more than a friend to me
You are my guardian angel
That has touched my life in more ways than one
Even though you're gone
Your presence is still so strong
Your style, your grace, your beautiful face
Will forever be in my heart, where you'll always be safe
From within and up above
I will always feel your love
One day we will meet again...
We'll be Sipping on heavenly champagne and enjoying the company only shared between friends

Christina

Your smile always went that extra mile
Your presence will never be forgotten

Because of our love for you
For you we will build a mountain

Just for you Christina
Just to express our love

You are in the heavens above
With those you love

Your pureness is more pure
Than a beautiful dove

You were a kind and wonderful person who always brought cheer
Your youth always brought light to a room

We never realized that it would bring you to your doom
Christina you did not deserve to leave like this

But this was gods wish
And now it seems like you've vanished

We are with you
Through good times and bad times

We will be true
We will not think about the bad times

But only the happy lines
And for every tear

Will be a smile
That will go that extra mile

With your special style
Christina

Oh Christina

I miss you so much

Sometimes I wish I could just feel your simple touch

But you are resting

Everlasting

Christina

Message from the Editor:

Friends, Romans, countrymen; lend me your ears. The sky is blue. The sun is shining. The yearbook is complete. Should I be proud of myself? OF COURSE. Has this been the most stressing commitment I've faced throughout high school? OF COURSE. Should I act arrogantly? OF COURSE. Those who were victimized to being in the presence of my complaints, stressful remarks, grumpy character, alas, have been able to somewhat comprehend my emotions throughout the process of this project. Should I go out on a rampage and explain why I'm the way I am? NAH, I'll just leave this one alone; I'M EXHAUSTED.

Chi – You feel my pain. Don't worry; I felt your pain also. The agony has come to an end.

Erin – You've made me realize that I've underrated moral support, motivation, and perseverance all my life.

Mr. Lorbergs – Your assistance has been priceless, a necessity in fact.

Okay okay, I'll go back to the typical "Editor's message". Thanks to everyone who supported and everyone who contributed to the success of the 2003-2004 Westview yearbook. If you sat with me and struggled to sell these books in the front foyer, if you helped post up posters, if you helped provide me with content for the book, if you sat down and faced "mugshot nightmare", if ANYTHING, I THANK YOU. Linda, Veneisha, Zully, Joanne, Mabel, Adjubi, it has been a pleasure. It has been a difficult process, and I feel it is significant to recognize those who made it easier. Although it's hard for me to say it was a team effort, every little thing helped. I hope my attempt to avenge the horror of last year's yearbook has been successful.

Your Editor,
Eric Van
